

CHAMBERLAIN APPOINTS HALIFAX FOREIGN MINISTER; LABOR PARTY THREATENS TO CHALLENGE SELECTION

$632,643 LETTING FOR ROADS LISTS WHITEHALL LINK

Extension Will Open Broad New Avenue Into
City for South-Bound
Traffic; Cost Is $50,594.

BOARD RESTRICTS SUBLET PRACTICE

'No Brokerage,' Chairman Miller Asserts Before Awards Are Made.

Contract for the extension of Whitehall street in Atlanta was included in highway construction contracts totaling $632,643.78 let yesterday by the State Highway Board.

The low bid for construction of the cut-off from Glenn street to McCall's crossing was $50,594, made by the M. J. Carroll Contracting Company, of Orlando, Florida.

Restrict Subletting.

Awards on the various projects, which were the first let this year, were made after W. L. Miller, chairman of the highway board, announced the board in the future will not allow contractors to sub-let more than 20 per cent of their contracts.

As the bids were opened yesterday, Miller said he and the board members believed that some contracting companies were subletting a large part of the awards they received.

The board does not intend to allow "anything that looks like brokerage," he asserted.

Broad, New Avenue.

Construction of the Whitehall street extension will open a broad new avenue into the city from the south. It will connect with Lee street at McCall's crossing and will enable motorists to avoid the congested business districts of West End in entering and leaving the city, it was said.

Work on the project has been going on for some time. The contract with the Carroll company calls for paving the stretch, which is a little more than four-tenths of a mile in length.

Chairman Miller asserted the Highway Department saved approximately $10,000 in the awards made yesterday by calling for new bids on two projects in Columbia and Screven counties.

Bids were made on these proj-

Half-Japanese Is Born To Manchu Heir's Wife

HSINKING, Manchukuo, Saturday, Feb. 26.—(UP)—A daughter was born today to Princess Soga, Japanese wife of Prince Pu Chieh, brother of Emperor Kang Teh of Manchukuo and a direct descendant of the Manchu rulers of all China.

If the child had been a boy he might some day have become the first half-Japanese heir to the ancient throne of the Manchus, binding by ties of blood the empires of Manchukuo and Japan. Prince Pu Chieh is the heir presumptive to the transplanted Manchu throne upon which the Japanese placed the erstwhile Chinese "Boy Emperor," Pu Yi, after the Manchurian invasion in 1931-32. Pu Yi became the Emperor Kang Teh.

Court Ejects Stork Derby 'Fire Brand'

Mrs. Lillian Kenny Creates Disturbance and Fights
Two Attendants.

TORONTO, Feb. 25.—(Canadian Press)—Mrs. Lillian Kenny, firebrand of the "stork derby," was ejected from the Ontario supreme court today but not before she had landed a right and a couple of lefts on the court attendants who were doing the ejecting.

Fighting for a chance to share the $500,000 baby-marathon prize with four, possibly five, other Toronto mothers, stocky Mrs. Kenny made a personal court appearance in mid-afternoon as the evidence was being taken as to whether still-born children should be counted in the "derby."

She created such a disturbance by addressing remarks to spectators around her that court officials persuaded her to leave quietly.
Then the excitement started.

"To hell with the judge," she shouted as she reached the corridor.

Earlier she had stalked indignantly from the courtroom in the midst of the discussion on three of her still-born children. She arose from her seat in the back row and left the room, muttering:

"They're my babies. They're treating them like dogs."

With nine eligible children each,
Mrs. Kathleen Nagle, Mrs. Annie
Smith, Mrs. Isabel MacLagan and Mrs. Luck Tucklett have been approved by Justice Middleton as winners. Their claims were unchallenged.

MOSCOW, Feb. 25.—Leon Trots-ky's brother recently was "unmasked" in a factory in Dimitri-trievsk, near Kursk, 300 miles south of Moscow, it was learned here today. Apparently he was using Trotsky's original name, Bronstein, and, according to the denunciation, he was "carrying on the struggle."

BATTLESHIP WINS FAVOR OVER PLANE

Roosevelt Indicates He Does Not Favor Merging
Army and Navy Services

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—(AP)— Legislation to strengthen the government's hand in wartime won approval of the house military affairs committee today after weeks of bickering.

It would direct the Treasury to suggest a system of taxation to prevent profiteering, authorize a draft of manpower and give the President broad emergency powers over industry.

Before recommending the measure, which is part of President Roosevelt's national defense program, the committee overrode Chairman May, Democrat, Kentucky, by restoring the draft and other drastic provisions.

As approved by the house military committee, the war profits bill would empower the President to establish a ceiling for prices in event of hostilities. It also would authorize him to draft men between the ages of 21 and 31 for military service.

Some members said privately the bill was so severe it would be scuttled in the house. May imploded it would be several weeks

ATHENS, Ga., Feb. 25.—Criticism of Lamar Murdaugh, director of the State Department of Public Welfare, for refusing to permit reporters to examine old age pension records was contained in a resolution unanimously adopted today by the Georgia Press As-

The resolution charged Mur-daugh with "flagrant violation of the spirit of full publicity for all matters regarding the payment of any sum, representing tax money, to individuals."

M. L. Fleetwood, of Cartersville,

DRASTIC WAR BILL DEFENDED AS KEY TO JAPAN'S FATE

MINISTERS SHOUT ABOVE HECKLING

Army Warns Americans To Evacuate Hankow in Face of Offensive.

TOKYO, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Bitter controversy on lines of democracy against dictatorship pitted Japan's house of representatives against the cabinet today in a critical struggle.

The issue was over the drastic war control bill which the cabinet was determined to make law and which members of parliament resisted as an innovation of fascism.

The house which was recessed yesterday when hoots and howls interrupted debate on the measure, again assailed it in a tumultuous session and sent it back to a 45-member committee for revision.

Leaders of the opposition were cheered wildly when they stormed against the legislation's "Nazi-style," charging it would emasculate the constitution and rob the Japanese people of their basic rights.

"Fate of Nation."
"The situation is very grave," said General Gen Sugiyama, the war minister, urging passage of the bill. "The fate of the nation hangs on this occasion."

MURDERS CHARGED THREE ATLANTANS

Grand Jury Indictments
Name William Everett,
Brown Parker, Maddox.

Murder was charged three Atlantans in indictments returned by the Fulton grand jury yesterday.
They were:

William Everett, 32, of 477 Luckie street, charged with the fatal ice-pick stabbing of his brother-in-law, Lucius Fielder, 36-year-old resident of 376 Simpson street.

Brown Parker, 67-year-old resident of 660 Bryant street, accused of shooting and killing 24-year-old James Monroe Pinkard, of 1234
Oak Grove avenue.

J. V. Maddox, 35-year-old negro, arrested for the shotgun killing of Rube McNeal.

Quarrel Over Watch.

Everett is charged with killing Fielder February 19. Fielder's wife said she and her husband went to Everett's home to get her watch which, she said, Everett had pawed. She said the two men left the house together after a quarrel.

Everett told police he and Fielder scuffled for possession of an ice pick, which he charged Fielder wielded.

Parker is charged with fatally shooting Pinkard on February 18 near a public school on Flat Shoals avenue. The victim had just accompanied his little sister-in-law to the school when he met Parker and a heated argument started, police said.

Collapses in Station.

Shortly afterwards Pinkard drove his auto into the Flat Shoals filling station, where he was employed, stepped from the car and collapsed. He died at Grady hospital of pistol wounds in the chest and head without regaining consciousness.

Mrs. Pinkard, wife of the victim, told police that the two men had previously quarreled over an "insulting letter" Parker had written her.

Maddox is alleged to have shot McNeal on February 22 with a shotgun.

100 PLANES CLASH IN CHINESE BATTLE

Large Raid Staged by Japanese in Attack on Airdrome at Nanchang.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 26.—(Saturday AP)—Japan claimed today to have struck China's air force a paralyzing blow in a great air battle over the Nanchang airdrome, "nerve center" of China's aviation, in Kiangsi province.

Chinese, however, disputed the Japanese version of the battle in which about 100 planes were said to have been engaged simultaneously.

Japanese said 50 of their own naval planes overwhelmed a fleet of 40 "Russian and American" manufactured Chinese combat planes that rose to battle them.
Chinese said they counted 59
Japanese raiders.

Damage Reports Vary.

"More than 30" Chinese fighting planes were shot down and extensive damage inflicted on the air base by the bombers, the Japanese naval command declared.

It admitted loss of only two planes in the combat last yesterday, which it called one of the "most successful air raids since the outbreak of hostilities."

Chinese said they destroyed eight of the Japanese planes and mentioned neither losses to their own fleet or damage to the airdrome.

At the same time Japanese denied Chinese reports their troops had suffered heavily in central China, where the Chinese said their forces had counter-attacked in southern Shantung province and along the Tientsin-Pukow railroad, in the eastern sector of the Lunghai front.

Combat planes conveying the bombers in the Nanchang raid, the Japanese said, held off the Chinese defenders "with devastating results" while the attack was carried out.

PERSHING UNIFORM ASKED FOR BURIAL

TUCSON, Ariz., Feb. 25.—

Boy Footballers Make 65-Mile 'Run' After Stealing Autos and Bicycle

By LEE ROGERS.

Three fleet-footed "backs" who hurdled a six-foot wall and out-ran guards during a football game at the Fulton county juvenile detention home Thursday, were "tackled" by an automobile yesterday after a 65-mile run.

The "football players" were being held by Fulton authorities for federal officers on a charge of violating the national motor vehicle theft act.

Their "run" was aided by three automobiles and three bicycles—all stolen, state highway patrolmen said.

The "tackle" was made by the third auto, which was wrecked on the Jasper highway at Fairmount.
Assisting was Chief Grady Moore, of Fairmount, who made the arrest.

Officials said the boys escaped during a recreational hour when children had been taken into the yard to play football. When the boys made their break only one

NAZIS OF AUSTRIA PLAN FINISH FIGHT

Situation 'Critical,' Returning to Status of Schuschnigg-Hitler Talk

VIENNA, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Austrian Nazis, seething with dissatisfaction, declared tonight they planned a fight to the finish against Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg and his determined stand for a free and independent Austria.

Fatherland Front members of Austria's only legal party, pleased as they were by the Chancellor's defiance of Nazi hopes to unite Germany and Austria, admitted the situation was "critical."

The fortnight speech of Schuschnigg to parliament last night led to wide conjecture that somebody or something had given him the assurance too speak so boldly of independence and freedom in the face of German support of Austria's Nazis.

Report Duce Said 'Go.'

One widely believed report said
Schuschnigg had talked to Italian Premier Mussolini by telephone before the speech and was told to speak right out.

It also was said Britain had hinted to Mussolini the Anglo-Italian friendship negotiations might proceed more smoothly if Mussolini kept a friendly eye on Austria's independence.

(Although Italy and Germany are linked in the Rome-Berlin axis, Mussolini has been considered generally to look with disfavor on any too great spread of Nazi influence in a country that borders them both.)

(There have been reports, however, that Mussolini gave Fuehrer Hitler a go-ahead signal in central

PREMIER TO DEAL WITH BIG ISSUES

New Secretary Friend of Germany, Italy and Opposed Duke's Wedding.

ROME, Feb. 25.—(UP)—Italy is reducing her military garrisons in Libya, numbering about 80,000 troops, close to Egypt and French Tunisia, to pave the way for Premier Benito Mussolini's direct negotiations with Great Britain, it was disclosed tonight.

It was stated authoritatively that the garrison reductions are a "temporary" move, but it was indicated the troops would not be returned if the London-Rome negotiations are successful.

(Copyright, 1938, by United Press.)

LONDON, Feb. 25.—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, defying laborites to force a new "showdown" in the house of commons on his negotiations with the dictators, today announced the appointment of Viscount Halifax to succeed Captain Anthony Eden as foreign secretary.

Chamberlain's announcement that, although the 57-year-old Halifax will run the foreign office, the prime minister himself will deal with "all important aspects of foreign affairs subject to debate or questions in the house of commons" failed to calm the opposition press.

The Laborite opposition, already clamoring for a general election to force Chamberlain's government out of office because of its direct bargaining with Premier Mussolini and Fuehrer Hitler, was bitter at the selection of a foreign secretary who sits in the house of lords rather than in commons.

Charge Concealed.

They regarded the maneuver as designed to conceal from them the operations of British foreign affairs under Chamberlain's new policy of "realism" as contrasted with Eden's "idealism" which forced his resignation.

Major Clement R. Attlee, leader of the Laborites, threatened to challenge Lord Halifax's selection on constitutional grounds.

Attlee, in a town hall speech at Oxford tonight, condemned the

Clubwomen Frolic in Garb of Many Lands

Business and Professional Group Marks International Relations Night.

Colorful costumes, decorations and songs of other nations were in the spotlight last night at a downtown hotel as the Business and Professional Women's Club of Atlanta joined with hundreds of others in observance of international relations night.

The dinner, opened with an invocation by Mrs. Lila Ellis, was attended by women dressed in costumes of various nations. While the club's band played songs of the orient, dancers and soloists entertained.

A gypsy beggar dance of peace was given by Miss Dorothy Alexander. Dr. Arnold Ingenmann sang Norwegian songs and Mrs. Joe A. Brown, wearing a New Zealand costume, sang folks songs of that land. Miss Bella Rabin, in Russian dress, sang "Dark Eyes" in Russian.

Adding to the attractiveness of the program, a number of girls wore picturesque costumes of many foreign countries and were presented singly in a large frame, while Miss Frances Reynolds told a story about each costume and the country from which it came.

Miss Louise Vaughn, chairman of the program committee, was assisted by Miss Maude Sewell, Mrs. Mayne Carmichael, Miss Kate Hammerschmidt, Mrs. W. T. Tomlinson, Miss Irene Wray, Mrs. Mildred Seydell and Mrs. Janice McKinney.

Costumes, dolls and flags of the nations of the world were used to brighten the dinner, held at a hotel. sinking spell when the old warrior sank into a coma from which he did not revive until heart stimulants had been administered.

They said another such relapse would be serious if not fatal.

Attendants said the general had lapsed into a deep coma from which he could not be aroused.

As a second oxygen tent was rushed to the sick room at 8:15 p. m. (9:15 p. m., Atlanta time) relatives took up their anxious vigil as of last night.

The general's son, Warren, and a nephew, Frank, were at the bedside. Miss May Pershing, an only sister, paced the corridor nervously.

Downward Grade.

The last sick-room bulletin issued by Dr. Davison and Lieutenant Colonel S. U. Marietta at 5 p. m. (6 p. m., Atlanta time) disclosed the general was on the downward grade again.

It said his condition was "not so good as at 1 p. m." and reported an increase of two degrees of temperature and a decrease in blood pressure.

The bulletin was the first indication the ailing commander, suffering from a critical heart condition brought on by a rheumatic attack, had begun to lose the ground gained earlier in the day—gains which caused the physicians to express encouragement.

Early in the afternoon, however, Dr. Davison announced General Pershing's mind was somewhat perturbed and expressed concern.

before he would try to bring it up for debate. He indicated he would seek action first on measures to add about 2,000 officers to the army and strengthen the enlisted reserve.

Battleships or Planes.

Meanwhile, discussion of the relative merits of battleships and airplanes cropped up again at the White House and before the house naval committee, which is studying the administration's proposal for a $1,156,000,000 expansion of the navy.

President Roosevelt, when asked at his press conference what he thought about the increasing effectiveness of aircraft, remarked that always in the past antidesires had been discovered for any new weapons of warfare.

The President was questioned concerning reports of secret army and navy tests to determine the vulnerability of battleships from the air. He said his recent recommendation for a 20 per cent increase in the size of the fleet was the best answer.

Mr. Roosevelt indicated he did not favor consolidation of the army and navy departments. He said he thought the present set-up was working very well, had func-

12 SENATORS JOIN WAR VOTE DEMAND

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—(P)—Twelve senators joined today in the introduction of a constitutional amendment which would prohibit the United States from engaging in an offensive foreign war except after approval in a national referendum.

Co-authors of the measure are Senators Bone, Democrat, Washington; Capper, Republican, Kansas; Clark, Democrat, Missouri; Donahay, Farmer-Laborite, North Dakota; LaFollette, Progressive, Wisconsin; Lundeen, Farmer-Laborite, Minnesota; Murray, Democrat, Montana; Nye, Republican, North Dakota; Shipstead, Farmer-Laborite, Minnesota; and Wheeler, Democrat, Montana.

tioned well during the World War and that the two services were working together with less friction than ever before.

Battleships Not Supplanted.

The navy's chief of aeronautics, Rear Admiral Arthur B. Cook, told the house naval committee that aircraft had by no means supplanted battleships.

While he conceded battleships could be sunk if hit often enough in the right places, Cook said it would take 6,750 bombers to deliver fire power equal to that of the 15 battleships the navy now has.

Cook pointed out that the 15 capital ships cost approximately $1,000,000,000, and said the 6,750 bombing planes would cost about seven times as much, considering that such planes last only eight years, in contrast to the 26-year life of a battleship.

Cook declared a "terrific, uneconomical and very probably unsuccessful concentration" of bombers would be required to sink even a few enemy battleships. He said the mission of the United States navy's air forces was to injure all enemy battleships so severely that the American fleet would have a marked superiority.

$106,000,000 For Planes.

Admiral Cook estimated the 950 new planes proposed for the navy would add $106,000,000 to the cost of the naval expansion program. Other officials had estimated the proposed 47 warships and 32 auxiliary vessels would cost about $1,050,000,000.

If the "successful prosecution of war" renders it advisable, the bill would authorize the registration of individuals engaged in management or control of specific industries, who might then be compelled to enter the service of the government as civilians.

MAYOR TO LEAVE FOR I. C. C. PARLEY

Presses High Talc Freight Rate Fight.

Mayor Hartsfield will leave Atlanta this morning to appear before the Interstate Commerce Commission Tuesday protesting high freight rates.

He will join with attorneys and industrialists and representatives of the state public service commission in a fight on freight rates charged for hauling talc out of Georgia.

The Conference of Southeastern Governors is interested in the same battle as it applies to southeastern freight rates generally, it was said.

Hartsfield will return to Atlanta Wednesday or Thursday next week.

INDIANA COUNTY BANS GERMAN BUND MEETS

GARY, Ind., Feb. 25.—(P)—An order restraining the Amerika-Deutscher Volksbund (German-American Bund) from holding meetings or soliciting members in Lake county, Indiana, was issued today by Superior Judge Jenkins.

The order was asked by Richard Kaplan, Gary attorney, who said he was acting for himself as a Jew.

appointment of Halifax and called upon the people to "drive Chamberlain and all his government from office."

Back to Armed Anarchy.

"I believe," he said, "that far from leading to peace, this is going back to armed anarchy which can lead only to another war."

He described Halifax as "someone safely away in the house of lords and out of the way of awkward questions."

"Everywhere, I believe, there is the same spirit that ousted Sir Samuel Hoare from office. I think now that it was unjust that he should have gone alone on that occasion."

Hoare, now home secretary, was Eden's predecessor as foreign secretary and quit under fire because of the ill-fated Hoare-Laval plan to split up Ethiopia.

Laborite Named.

Chamberlain also announced that R. A. Butler, parliamentary labor secretary, will become undersecretary of foreign affairs to succeed Viscount Cranborne, who followed Eden into retirement.

Viscount Halifax, lord president of the council in the Chamberlain cabinet, is a former viceroy of India. He gained fame for negotiating a truce with Mahatma Gandhi in the spring of 1931.

It was Lord Halifax who was one of Baldwin's staunchest supporters and confidantes during the abdication crisis and he refused to concede that any compromise existed whereby Edward VIII could marry Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson and still sit on the throne of Great Britain.

Halifax Friendly.

Last November 17 Viscount Halifax, always a close friend of Germany, was sent to Berchtesgaden, where he and Hitler discussed means of putting Anglo-German relations back on a friendly basis.

He feels as strongly about Italian friendship as he does of Germany's, according to his statements in the house of lords Thursday night.

Before Halifax's appointment was formally announced Atlee, in a statement to Chamberlain on the floor of commons, said:

"If the foreign secretary is a member of the house of lords I will ask for a debate on the matter."

Constitutional Issue.

"May I ask the prime minister to realize that at the present time foreign affairs are the burning issue in this country and if this house is to be shut down without having a foreign secretary to answer questions it raises a very big constitutional issue."

Lord Halifax consulted today with Lord Perth, British ambassador to Rome, regarding the agenda of the Italo-British negotiations which Lord Perth will launch in Rome early next week with Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano.

Ribbentrop Visit.

Official quarters said nothing was known in London regarding the date of the arrival here of Joachim von Ribbentrop, new German foreign minister, to begin direct Anglo-German conversations similar to those undertaken with Italy.

German quarters asserted, nevertheless, that Ribbentrop had arranged to come to London to see Chamberlain.

The United Press reported from Berlin that von Ribbentrop expects to depart for London early next week and that his conversations on a new formula of Anglo-German friendship depend largely upon the progress of the British conversations in Rome.

U. S.-BRITAIN BREAK FORESEEN BY EDEN

LEAMINGTON, England, Feb. 25.—(UP)—Captain Anthony Eden, who resigned as British foreign secretary five days ago, warned in a speech tonight that the government's dealings with the dictators "may have the gravest consequences" on British relations with the United States and other democracies.

Eden, in his first public address since he quit in opposition to Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's "realistic" policy, told his Leamington constituents that "a convinced believer in democracy" could not permit such a policy to develop without protest.

"It is well to seek to lay aside old animosities," he said, "but not, of course, at the expense of old friendship."

"It is with the great democracies of Europe and America that our natural affinities must lie. We must stand by our conception of international order, without which there can be no lasting peace."

CUSTOMS COLLECTORS CONFIRMED BY SENATE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—(UP)—The senate today confirmed the nomination of John H. Dooley to be collector of customs of District No. 1 with headquarters at Portland, Maine.

The senate also confirmed the nomination of Samuel T. Ladd to be comptroller of customs in District No. 4 with headquarters at Boston, Mass.

about the downfall of Premier General Senjuro Hayashi after he had threatened to govern without parliament.

Cabinet members, defending the general mobilization bill both as legal and as a war necessity, had to shout their arguments above the taunts of hecklers.

The pivotal articles of the bill, each beginning, "in time of war when it is found necessary," are:

"The government may, in accordance with provisions of an imperial ordinance, expropriate subjects of the empire and cause them to be engaged in a general mobilization of business."

"The government may restrict or prohibit export or import, order export or import, assess export or import tariffs, or increase or decrease export or import tariffs."

"The government may use or expropriate goods for a general mobilization."

"The government may suspend newspaper publication in cases where newspaper sale or distribution has been prohibited twice or more by the government within 30 days."

Penalties for Editors.

It makes imprisonment for two years or a fine of 2,000 yen ($500) the penalty for publishers, editors or authors convicted of writing or publishing any matter in disobedience to the press law.

Despite the opposition, however, the cabinet marshaled its forces to put the bill through as a matter of urgency.

AMERICANS WARNED TO LEAVE HANKOW

SHANGHAI, Saturday, Feb. 26. (UP)—The Japanese army today served notice to the United States and the world it intends to occupy the provisional capital of Nationalist China in Hankow and that Americans and other foreigners who remain there do so at their peril.

The decision was of vital importance and was believed to be a direct result of the British cabinet crisis which resulted in the resignation of Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and London's abandonment of his efforts to effect a united front with the United States in the Far East.

Chinese believed it left Washington virtually alone in the fight to preserve China's territorial integrity and the rights of Americans in this country, for they asserted, the new foreign policy of the British government will be to placate Japan and ignore her aggressions in China as Britain did during the Japanese occupation of Manchuria and parts of North China in 1931-33.

Many Chinese believed that a renewal of the old Anglo-Japanese alliance, scrapped at the insistence of the United States, is a possibility.

The Japanese were reported to be massing 300,000 men for the Hankow drive and to expect to occupy the capital within a month.

ULTIMATUM TO JAPAN REVEALED BY HULL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—(UP)—Secretary of State Cordell Hull revealed today that the United States has served new warning on Japan to exercise extreme caution in any military activities that may endanger American lives or property in China.

The warning was more or less an ultimatum. It was delivered to the Japanese foreign office on February 18 by Ambassador Joseph Grew, and advised the Tokyo government it would be held strictly accountable for any injury to Americans or damage to their property.

It stated further, regardless of warnings by Japan that military operations were imminent in central China and that Americans should seek safety, that the United States would not consider Japan's official responsibility lessened.

Hull explained that the note, text of which was not released, complied with a formal notice served upon both the Japanese and Chinese governments last August 27.

ARKANSAS RIVERS DECLINE STEADILY

Flood Situation Believed Now Under Control.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Feb. 25.—(P)—Rivers throughout Arkansas are steadily rising, bringing farmers and relief authorities declarations that the state's general flood situation appeared "under control."

Only on the St. Francis river in the extreme northeast corner of the state along the Missouri border was there reported any serious danger of new trouble.

Albert Evans, disaster relief director for the American National Red Cross, said there had been no appreciable change in the estimated 23,000 persons forced out of their homes by the floods.

HOOVER MISSES INJURY IN AUTO-TRUCK CRASH

ARRAS, France, Feb. 25.—(P)—Former President Herbert Hoover escaped injury in an automobile accident today as he was motoring from Lille to Paris.

The car in which he was riding and a truck collided in Arras. The former President stepped out, surveyed the damage and proceeded on his trip.

House Committee Asks $86,350 For Great Smoky Mountains Park

Request Fails To Include $743,000 Appropriation for Tennessee Land.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—(P)—The house appropriations committee asked congress today to approve expenditure of $86,350 to maintain the Great Smoky Mountains National Park in North Carolina and Tennessee.

This was $650 less than the budget recommendation. The committee said this was the park's share of expense for a national park regional office at Richmond, Virginia.

The bill failed to include a $743,000 appropriation recently authorized to complete purchase of land on the Tennessee side of the park.

The committee also asked congress to provide $2,500,000 for continuing work on the Blue Ridge parkway during the 1938-39 fiscal year.

Completion of the Blue Ridge parkway from Roanoke, Va., to Asheville, N. C., within another year is the goal of the National Park Service.

This was disclosed today in publication of testimony on the 1938-39 Interior Department supply bill. The department recommended a $2,500,000 for continuing work on the parkway.

Testifying before an appropriations subcommittee, A. E. Demaray, acting national park director, said the appropriation would be used to connect gaps in existing projects, and for a section south of Grandfather mountain in the

ICKES' DEPARTMENT GETS $124,988,730

Funds for Interior Body 8 Millions Less Than This Year.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—(P)—The Interior Department ought to be able to get along on $124,988,730 in the year beginning July 1, the house appropriations committee decided today.

This is $7,947,557 less than the department had for the present year. Items were trimmed all along the line.

The bill was the sixth of the session's 10 regular appropriation measures to reach the house. And for the sixth time the appropriations committee kept below budget bureau recommendations—this time by $2,490,535.

The biggest items in the bill are $36,939,600 for the Reclamation Bureau, $20,263,118 for the Indian Bureau, $18,669,672 for the National Park Service and $15,009,650 for vocational education.

The committee put in $13,000,000 for the Grand Coulee dam in Washington, $3,655,000 for the similar Bonneville project in Oregon, $9,000,000 for the Central Valley water supply program in California, $3,500,000 for the Boulder Canyon development on the Colorado river and $500,000 for the All-American canal project.

Sutton Suggests Alternate Work, Study System

A system of alternating work and school attendance was suggested last night by Dr. Willis A. Sutton, Atlanta schools superintendent, at a meeting of school superintendents in Atlantic City, N. J., last night.

Voicing his opinion at a round-table discussion, Dr. Sutton told a dozen school superintendents it would be a "good idea to let older students alternate between work and schooling."

"The system could apply to those older than 16," he said. "Under it, a student could drop out of school when he gets a job, and when the job gives out, come back to school again."

Dr. Sutton's suggestion was in line with the decision reached by the superintendents that public schools in the future probably will be as much interested in teaching a pupil how to hold a job as in how to spell big words and conjugate Latin verbs.

Fifty Georgia school superintendents leave from Terminal station at 12:55 o'clock this afternoon to participate in the annual convention.

Among those leaving today are Dr. M. D. Collins, state superintendent of schools; Jere Wells, superintendent of Fulton county schools; and B. M. Grier, of Athens, president of the Georgia Education Association.

Dr. Sutton and 25 other Georgia educators left earlier in the week.

LOYALISTS REPORT INSURGENT PLANES BOMB BRITISH SHIP

Three of Crew Said To Have Been Wounded by 40
Shells at Sagunto.

HENDAYE, Franco - Spanish Frontier, Feb. 25.—(UP)—The Spanish Loyalist government announced tonight three crew members of a British ship were wounded when six Rebel seaplanes bombed the vessel at Sagunto, 15 miles north of Valencia.

The name of the vessel was given as the Bremen. Earlier it was said that the ship was named Phlandes. Neither is mentioned in Lloyd's register.

An official statement at Barcelona said one of the injured was suffering from grave head wounds caused by shrapnel.

More than 40 bombs were dropped on the port of Sagunto. Other insurgent seaplanes from the Balearic Islands base attacked San Felix Guixols, 50 miles south of the French frontier and north of Barcelona.

The insurgent cruisers Canarias and Baleares shelled Palamos, eight miles south of San Felix Guixols, causing an unknown number of casualties, 24 hours after an International Red Cross appeal for both sides to cease attacking open cities was delivered to insurgent and Loyalist capitals.

Meanwhile, unconfirmed reports were received at Perpignan, France, just over the northeastern Spanish frontier, that part of the Barcelona Loyalist garrison revolted, refusing to go to the Teruel front because it would be a "useless sacrifice."

DEKALB VOTERS TO MEET FRIDAY

Matthews, McGee and Edwards Will Speak.

A meeting of the executive board of the DeKalb League of Women Voters, citizens of the county and members of the county Democratic executive committee will be held at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon in the DeKalb county courthouse in Decatur, it was announced yesterday.

Commissioner C. A. Matthews, County Farm Agent E. P. McGee and Tax Commissioner H. H. Howard will speak. A representative of the Democratic executive committee will explain the question, "Why a Spring Primary?"

The league, at a meeting in the home of Mrs. Paul Speir this week, made plans for the annual vote registration drive. All citizens will be urged to register by April 2 by the use of posters and other publicity means, the members said.

TUBERCULOSIS UNIT REAPPOINTS STAFF

Silver Service Presented to Retiring Chairman.

The entire medical staffs of both white and negro divisions of the Atlanta Tuberculosis Association were reappointed for this year, it was announced yesterday, following the annual meeting Thursday night.

Dr. E. A. Bancker Jr., retiring chairman of the medical staff, delivered his annual report. A silver vase was presented to him in recognition of his service. He was succeeded by Dr. T. I. Willingham.

Dr. H. C. Schenck, director of the state division of tuberculosis control, delivered an address, following which Dr. Harvey Payne, chairman of the newly-organized committee to co-ordinate the work of Atlanta dentists, made a report on the committee's work.

H. S. BADGER RITES TO BE HELD TODAY

City Hall Officer To Be Buried in Marietta.

Funeral services for Harry S. Badger, 60, night officer at the city hall for the last six years, who died Thursday at his home, 75 Twelfth street, N. E., will be held at 9 o'clock this morning in Sacred Heart church, with the Rev. Father Edward P. McGrath officiating. Burial will be in National cemetery, Marietta, Ga., with Lee-Roosevelt Camp No. 6, Spanish-American War Veterans, in charge.

A native of Quitman, Mr. Badger had lived in Atlantic City, N. J.; Savannah, Jacksonville, and DeLand, Fla., before moving to Atlanta in 1926. He had formerly been night watchman at the city auditorium.

30 DEGREE LOW, FAIR PREDICTED FOR TODAY

Slowly rising temperatures and fair skies were predicted for Atlanta today after the mercury hits a low of 30 degrees this morning, the weatherman said. Frost was forecast.

Light snow fell in Atlanta yesterday but melted as fast as it fell. The temperatures ranged between 31 and 39 degrees.

The weatherman expressed belief the current cold had not been intense enough to damage the peach crop and said the low temperatures should aid the crop in most sections.

Temperatures today are expected to climb above 40 degrees, the weather bureau reported.

BUSINESS HEARS CHEERING NEWS

Every indication points to a drastic modification of the undistributed profits and capital gains taxes in the new tax bill which is now almost ready for the house to consider. The house finance committee has received the draft of the bill from a subcommittee and the report to the house is expected at any time.

Representative Vinson, of Kentucky, chairman of the subcommittee, states the new bill will materially ease the tax burden on all business and on corporations. Representative Crowder, of New York, also of the subcommittee, asserts the undistributed profits tax has almost been destroyed, while its provisions have been entirely eliminated in so far as corporations of $25,000 or less are concerned.

Nothing could better serve the good of the entire nation than total repeal of these two taxes. Lacking total repeal, the sweeping modification proposed will go far toward removing the crippling effect of the taxes upon business generally.

Many economic observers have laid the larger part of the blame for the business slump of the past half year upon the undistributed profits tax. They point out that its evil effects have not been confined to business alone, but have worked great hardship upon workers, farmers and the general public. For it is undeniably true that whatever hurts business and hinders industrial expansion must hurt, most seriously, the workers who look to their jobs for their daily bread and the farmers who find, in those workers, the customers for their products.

By levying an exorbitant tax on profits held in reserve, instead of being distributed as dividends, the tax made practically prohibitory the accumulation of funds for needed expansion of business and industrial activity. No company could lay aside a fund for the building of plant additions or other improvements when that fund was subject to a tax as high, in some instances, as 32.4 per cent.

Thus barred from expansion, industry was automatically barred from providing jobs for tens of thousands of workers in its own plants and other thousands who would have been employed in the desired construction.

The tax bill has yet to run the gauntlet of both house and senate. Particularly in the senate finance committee it will face the challenge of leaders of the conservative wing. It may be radically changed before final enactment. But it is extremely unlikely any changes made will raise the undistributed profits and capital gains tax rates as provided in the committee measure. Rather, if there are changes, they will, in all probability, be downward.

The desirability of the course is so evident and the overwhelming opinion of voters all over the nation is so much in favor of such a step that the legislators would not surprise if they finally wiped the undistributed profits tax out altogether.

ELEPHANTS-OF-THE-LINE

To a war-mad and war-weary world comes disquieting news from Siam. This little nation, which in the event of a Far Eastern conflict might well become involved in the maelstrom, is going to add 300 elephants to her pachyderm army reserves.

Will the note-writing countries of the world take pen in hand and dispatch memoranda to determine the weight and armament of these elephants-of-the-line? Will pompous generals to determine their own weight and numbers of these battalions of the jungle?

Someday might rake the dust under the table of the League of Nations to find out whether there hasn't been a treaty, agreement, protocol, convention, understanding or even a scrap of paper dealing with the qualitative or quantitative restrictions on elephants trained for destructive warfare. It can't be that such a weighty subject could have been overlooked all these years.

And in what a fix we find the United States involved. Peaceful behemoths of our circus world have subsisted on peanuts and popcorn provided by peace-loving patrons for these many years. Leading a sedentary life, far from war's alarms, they are entirely unprepared for the rigors of campaigning. The curse, again, of unpreparedness.

Of course, it is entirely possible the addition of some 1,500 tons in elephants-of-the-line to Siam's fighting forces is none of our business.

ness. Possible, too, they might be white elephants and eat Siam into a deficit. Besides, who ever heard of an anti-elephant gun outside of the Explorers' and Union clubs?

THE PRESS INSTITUTE

Editors attending the Georgia Press Institute, now in session at Athens, have enjoyed the privilege of hearing some of the most thoughtful observers of the trends of the day, in newspaper publishing, in government and in the social order, analyze these events in the light of their probable future effect upon the newspaper business in particular and upon the American nation in general.

Mark F. Ethridge, former Georgian and now vice president and general manager of the Louisville Courier-Journal and Times, told the editors this nation has not yet achieved the concept of democracy that was in the minds and hearts of George Washington and the fathers who wrote the federal constitution and erected the framework upon which a new structure of human liberty was to be built.

Restoration of human rights and dignity, alleviation of unsatisfactory economic conditions and an end to illiteracy were listed by Mr. Ethridge as essential reforms which must be achieved before the American people will be able to create a democracy approximating what was destined when the nation was born.

We must recognize, Mr. Ethridge declared, that change is necessary to national life and that concepts of government must grow. Reality must recognize that the needs of today cannot be met by the methods of the past, no matter how much sentiment is attached to memory. Will W. Loomis, president of the National Editorial Association, warned Georgia editors against "staying in a rut," and pointed out that the only newspaperman who can expect success is he who stays constantly "on his toes," ready at all times to lead the way to better things.

Character reflected in the editorial columns of a newspaper is what makes it great, was the thought expressed by W. T. Anderson, editor of the Macon Telegraph, when he called on editors to make their papers "dependable, generous and kind."

All speakers declared that a newspaper's editorial policy must be individual and untrammelled, bringing honest opinion which will win the respect of readers, whether or not all agree with the views expressed.

The Georgia Press Institute brings great opportunity to editors of the state, both through the nationally known speakers provided and through the opportunity, at round-table discussions, for exchange of views and experiences. The benefit of the institute is reflected every day in the year in the constant improvement noticeable in almost all the press of the state.

BELTING THE BELTLINE

The solar plexus is getting a great workout these days over in the gymnasium on the third floor of police headquarters, where an offensive against midliffs is gaining more and more momentum.

The wide-girthed and broad-beamed policeman is on his way out of the department, according to Chief of Police M. A. Hornsby, who is setting an example for his men by exercising daily. Pedaling stationary bicycles, lifting weights, boxing, wrestling, punching the bag, playing volleyball and basketball and other methods of reducing weight and getting in better physical trim are filling the room with a symphony of grunts, groans and gasps.

Paunches are beginning to lose rolls of flesh, muscles are getting firmer and more flexible, grouches are vanishing, minds are already more alert, and Atlanta policemen are becoming healthier, happier and more courteous.

There is no intensive, rigorous training of the type required for a championship boxing bout, nor do the men intend to apply for consideration for the role of Rhet Butler in "Gone With the Wind." There is no desire to flaunt masculine charm as typified by the shapely figures of the fashion models.

The daily gymnasium efforts of men who put in long hours pounding city beats and otherwise preventing and suppressing crime are merely their ways of expressing a desire to be of greater service to the city. One policeman in good physical condition is worth at least four of the shuffling, indolent, self-satisfied, overfed type. If exercise in the police gymnasium can thus increase department efficiency, it deserves the encouragement of every citizen of Atlanta.

With Europe in its present ominous condition, maybe Hoover has arrived in Belgium just in the nick of time again.

A machine now building at Harvard to crush the insignificant atom weighs 100 tons. Like the big navy crowd, science is taking no chances.

COFFEE FOR MOLA
(From the Greenville Piedmont.)

There's magnificence in the behavior of the Spanish people in Madrid who go about their business under the tension of terrible bomb raids that come with the regular irregularity of spring storms.

One of sardonic Franco's little tricks of annoying the half-starved Madrid populace is to broadcast daily from his Burgos and Seville stations the elaborate luncheon and dinner menus, fully and succulently described.

But Madrid recalls the boastful promises of Franco's General Mola to enter the city in November, then in December, and then at later dates, and returns the jest.

In the darkened capital's square is a coffee table carefully set, the coffee poured. Neatly pinned to the cloth is a sign which reads: "For Mola."

To most of Madrid's people—to most of the people of all Spain—the war there must seem as senseless as it does to the people of the United States.

But despair hasn't won them, and no people can be lost whose hope can survive what the Spanish are going through.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

COURT-PACKING FIGHT WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—The steering committee of rebellious Democrats which killed the President's court-packing bill is virtually reconstituted to destroy his governmental reorganization bill. Through the past month, frequent secret meetings have been held in the office of Senator Harry F. Byrd, of Virginia, and a plan of campaign has been laid out which calls for a sustained, month-long fight.

Precisely the same men have participated in the recent meetings as used to foregather every day or so last spring in the capitol hide-away of Senator Bennett Champ Clark, of Missouri, there to scheme out the next moves in the court fight.

Gerry, of Rhode Island, the pale, efficient whip of the anti-court plan men; Wheeler, of Montana, the anti-court plan leader; Walsh, of Massachusetts; the pious, unrelenting Bailey, of North Carolina; tough-talking Clark, Burke, of Nebraska, and Byrd himself—these are the members of the new junta. Byrd, who has made government reorganization his specialty, has been chosen as third official leader.

HISTORY REPEATS Moreover, the junta's scheme is to repeat the strategy of the court fight in exact detail. The member-senators fear the reorganization bill for the same reason they hated the court bill, because it greatly increases the President's power. They are prepared for the same sort of prolonged discussion which aired all the issues at stake in the court fight. They have ready the same long list of amendments in case of emergency, and they have obtained the same cooperation from the Republicans.

Probably the Republicans will not be quite so low this time as they did during the court fight. Elections are a trifle too near. Nevertheless, the agreement is that the Democrats will be allowed to take the lead, and the wise, cynical Republican leader, Charles L. McNary, of Oregon, will do his best to see that the agreement is kept.

Every sign indicates, moreover, that the fight of the junta will be successful in the senate. The chances seem to be that, if and when the senate approves the reorganization measure, there won't be much left of it but a few shreds and tatters. The real difficulty facing the junta is controlling the sequel to senate action.

In several separate bills, the house has already approved a reasonably extreme scheme for governmental reorganization. The President is passionately distrustful of seeing the reorganization measure go through; no other subject is so often on his lips. Therefore, a neat trick has been worked out by his leadership on the Hill. The senate will be allowed to pass a strictly fake measure; the fake measure will go to conference, and the strong house provisions will be added to it. And then the opposition will have to beat the conference report—a much harder job.

A BILL'S METAMORPHOSIS The reorganization measure, as before the senate, is such an anemic copy of the first bill sent to congress by the White House that its old friends and enemies scarcely recognize it.

The first reorganization bill was suppressed by the administration before it could be published and add fuel to the flames of the court fight. It was originally allowed to go to Capitol Hill by an oversight on the part of James Roosevelt, who was handling it for his father. It was offered one morning to the joint congressional committee then discussing reorganization, and all but four copies were recaptured by administration readers the same afternoon.

The administration leaders had every reason to be a trifle nervous of it. By dissolving quite literally every one of the statutory limitations on the form of the executive branch, it made the President's power over the structure of the government all but absolute.

Every congressional check intended to insure the carrying out of the congressional will was brutally abolished. As interpreted by the legislative counsel of the senate, even gave the President the power to rescind appropriations. What is more, all the immense powers it conferred were lodged permanently in the White House. No means was provided by which congress could recapture the granted powers, except, of course, by passing legislation over a veto.

A PALE, POOR THING As now rewritten by Senator James F. Byrnes, of South Carolina, who is the sponsor of the bill, it has been managing it in the senate, the reorganization bill is the palest, poorest thing possible. The reorganization power is granted only until June of 1940. It is narrowly restricted, and many agencies are exempted from it.

Moreover, Senator Byrnes and the White House have been watering it down in some new way almost every day. Not long ago, the provision changing the Interior Department's name to the Department of Conservation was removed to please the enemies of Harold L. Ickes.

In order to get the senate to swallow the abolition of the comptroller general's office, Senator Byrnes has proposed to make the substituted auditor general a congressional appointee. And he has even agreed to withdraw the proposed limited presidential power over the personnel of the independent agencies, last of the powers of this sort to remain.

Of course, the reason why the opposition has organized itself so carefully is that Senator Byrd and the other members perfectly understand the contemplated trick of the conference report. They hope that the trick will not be feasible after a long and exhaustive debate showing the full will of the senate. There is a good chance that their hopes will be realized.

A Biographer.

A gentleman who signs himself "James B. Rankin," of 423 West 118th street, New York, writes that he is preparing a biography of Charles Marion Russell, noted artist and humorist, and close friend of the late Will Rogers.

Mr. Russell, the letter states, came from a prominent family of the south and the biographer believes that friends may still reside in Atlanta or this section of the country.

Mr. Rankin would contact any persons who knew Mr. Russell well, or who may own original pictures, modelings, letters or manuscripts of his, or photographs of him, his family or friends.

So, if you who read have any Charles Marion Russell data, please write to Mr. Rankin direct at the address given above. He'll appreciate it.

Sixteen

Of a Kind.

Did you ever have in your home, at one and the same time, 16 lovely young ladies all 16 years of age, or thereabouts? Let me assure you, it is an experience.

A couple of nights ago the Sigma Tau Delta sorority, sophomore chapter, membership composed of students of Decatur Girls' High, held a meeting at my house. While much of their ritual and routine and doings are supposed to be secret, I have discovered the slogan, or passwords or whatever it is they have devised. Taking the initials of the Greek letters which compose the name of their sorority, they describe themselves as "Sixteen Terrible Devils."

Now, I wouldn't go so far as to say that the description so literally and succinctly phrased is a true clue to their personalities, yet there is a degree of confusion, whether devilish or no, when all 16 are talking at the same time and when they turn on the radio at fullest volume as a sort of musical background. Which seems to be their usual mode of conduct for the meeting.

Just for fun, we attempted to take a group picture of the 16 and it occupied at least 30 strenuous minutes to calm the turbulent situation before they could be personally posed for the flash of the photographer's bulb.

However, I do not wish there to be any misunderstanding. They are 16 of the most delightful young ladies it has ever been my privilege to know. They are all charming and all are beyond doubt, the pride of their own families and the adornment of their own homes.

You have only to see them and to speak with them for a few moments to feel that, with such a generation getting ready to take over the future of this old world is pretty bright, after all.

Boston has always been a city proud of a reputation for culture. Which makes all the more shocking a "letter to the editor" of the Boston Herald which appears in that paper for February 22.

World's Window

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

History Repeats.

NEW YORK—Our time resembles a great deal a certain epoch in Roman history, the era of decline of the old pagan order and the establishment of Christianity as the official creed of the peoples subjected by Rome. I have just been reading a book of laws and judicial pronouncements issued in the days of the Emperor Theodosius, who is regarded by most historians as a wise ruler, one who made a supreme effort to keep the tottering empire on its feet.

But the means he used were of a doubtful nature. He employed the Christian religion as a coordinating force to weld the peoples together. Only he emasculated that religion first and robbed it of all its world-transforming elements. From a creed of slaves and plebeians and social outcasts, all of them worthy successors of the first Galilean fishers, he elevated it to a religion of state. He barred discussion, investigation and criticism, that is to say he killed freedom.

"That all the heresies condemned by the divine and imperial laws of his decrees," reads one of his decrees. "That all men who do not believe as prescribed by the laws of the church and state either be silent or accept the consequences. A known heretic must be expelled from the cities. He may not testify in any court. Private assemblies of heretics are to be broken up ruthlessly, with the utmost vigor of the law, without regard for women and children found on the premises."

"To offend the church, by not believing in her doctrines, is to offend the state. Heretics who persist in denying the power of the state over their individual lives and who shall refuse to serve in the imperial armies, shall be condemned to death, burned without delay in the presence of judges, as men who have sinned against God's commands."

Christianity Considered More Intolerant.

One wonders in reading over these old chronicles that the Roman empire selected the Christian religion as the only suitable force capable of welding the nations together, when it had so many and such more pleasant religions to choose from. But Christianity had one thing that recommended it to the Roman authority. It was intolerant, exclusive and far more intolerant than the others.

There was only one drawback in Christianity which clashed violently with the aims of the empire. It was based on a morality of non-resistance of which the logical conclusion was, in the eyes of a great many Christians, the refusal of military service. To overcome that obstacle the empire first raised Christianity to the position of a state religion and made its own the quarrel of the church with the various groups of heretics. Thereupon the church dropped her opposition to militarism and in return again the emperors extirpated the remnants of paganism with the sword.

Religious Principle Is at Stake.

Today we witness something similar in the world: a deep religious principle is at stake in the struggle around totalitarianism. Totalitarianism would reduce man's status to that of an article for sale, at the disposal of the state. Not good and evil in themselves are man's guiding posts, but what is good or beautiful to the state, that alone is good. It may be the greatest injustice, even death and suffering to others. So long as it serves the state it is good and noble.

It does not require any lengthy demonstration to see that this view is making rapid headway in the world.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Red-Headed Daughter

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

My dear Louise:

Every small boy thinks his dad a hero and wishes to be like him. If his dad is a carpenter, say, carpentering seems a miraculous work that no ordinary mortal could do.

But as he approaches maturity, and discovers that his dad is a mere human, however worthy of love and respect, he is able to judge carpentering by its own merits alone, and Lo! it is only another kind of hard work.

You see, carpentering didn't seem wonderful because of any virtue in itself, but only because his dad did it.

That is something you should keep in mind in judging the conduct of the handsome lady who is now your model.

She is, as you say, charming and beautifully poised, always sure of herself, witty and wise and efficient. In these particulars, any girl might rejoice to be like her.

But she does a number of things that are not so admirable, and I am afraid you will do these things also in your effort to be like her.

Before you go too far, let me suggest that you ask yourself this question: "If these things I now wish to imitate were done by an illiterate slattern, would I still consider them admirable?"

I think I know the answer. You don't admire such things for their own sake, but only because your idol does them. Judged by themselves, without the glamour of her personality to excuse them, they would leave you cold or disgust you.

Moreover, if you did these things in the hope of being like the glamorous lady, you would succeed only in seeming affected and silly. A 10-year-old girl in her mother's evening dress and high heels is just a little girl pretending to be grown-up.

The secret of your idol's charm is her naturalness. The questionable things she does are a part of her—a natural result of her background, her experiences and her age. They aren't offensive in her case because they fit her, but it would take 15 years of fighting the world to make them fit you.

Wonderful people are alike only in being themselves. If you would smoke a pipe without loss of dignity, as Granny does, you must first get yourself 60 more years.

Love, DAD.

THE GROUNDS OF THE BELIEVER'S ASSURANCE.

Q—How may I know that once I am truly saved I shall be kept saved to the end?

A—The grounds of the believer's assurance are sevenfold:

1. The finished work of Christ. The Son of God came into the world to offer Himself as a ransom for sin. This was the work which the Father gave Him to do, and He went on with it until He was able to say, "It is finished" (John 19:30).

2. The plain promises of Scripture. Let it suffice to quote one passage from it. It is found in John 10:27-30: "My sheep hear my voice, and I know them," and they follow me; and I give unto them eternal life; and they shall never perish, neither shall any man pluck them out of my hand. My Father, which gave them to me, is greater than all; and no man is able to pluck them out of my Father's hand. I and my Father are one."

SENATOR GUFFEY PLEDGES SUPPORT TO INDORSED SLATE

Pennsylvania Democratic Committee Backs Jones
for Governorship.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 25.—(AP)—A slate of primary candidates bitterly assailed in preliminary parleys won swift and uncontested endorsement by Pennsylvania's Democratic state committee today.

Topping the ticket are Governor George H. Earle for United States senator, and Charles Alvin Jones, Pittsburgh lawyer and party worker, for governor. With them are State Senator Leo C. Mundy for lieutenant governor, and Thomas A. Logue, of Philadelphia, secretary of internal revenue.

United States Senator Joseph F. Guffey, who for a time threatened that he himself would run rather than see Jones approved, pledged allegiance tonight to the organization slate.

Still, despite the peaceful precision with which the slate—decided upon informally a week ago—was accepted, the party leaders had yet to deal with the threatened candidacy of Lieutenant Governor Thomas Kenney, today backed by John L. Lewis, CIO leader, as well as two other candidates already in the field for the nomination at the May 17 primary.

F. D. R. SAID TO HAVE SUGGESTED BULLITT
PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 25.—The Record said today President Roosevelt had suggested William C. Bullitt, of Philadelphia, United States ambassador to France, as a substitute choice for Governor to restore party harmony among Pennsylvania Democrats.

The President, the newspaper said, suggested Bullitt at a White House conference yesterday. The conference was called in an effort to end the party split which developed after the tentative slating last week of Charles Alvin Jones, of Pittsburgh, for Governor. Jones, however, was selected today at a conference of leaders in Harrisburg.

DIETRICH WITHDRAWS FROM SENATE RACE
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Senator William H. Dietrich announced his withdrawal tonight as a Democratic candidate for re-nomination.

The senator, who was denied support by either Governor Hornor's group or the opposing Democratic faction, backed by Mayor Kelly and National Committeeman Nash, issued a statement saying: "I deem it my duty in the interest of party harmony to withdraw my name as a candidate."

Editors Chat With Professors of Journalism at Athens

Editor meets professor of journalism, Jere N. Moore (left), president of the Georgia Press Association and prominent editor, and Willett Main Kempton, professor in the Henry W. Grady School of Journalism, photographed as they chatted at a meeting of the Press Institute.

The cameramen came upon these two members of the Institute as they talked over one thing and another after the banquet Thursday night. He found that Kirk Suttie (left) and Edward C. Crouse were not camera-shy in the least. Crouse is a professor in the Henry W. Grady School of Journalism.

Members of the Georgia Press Institute have fun. Will W. Loomis (left), president of the National Editorial Association, was a principal speaker Thursday night. Judging by the manner in which his two companions are laughing, he said something very funny before he addressed W. T. Anderson (center), publisher of the Macon Telegraph and News, and Bruce McCoy, executive secretary of the Louisiana Press Association.

Editors Censure Welfare Director For Secrecy in Pension Records

consider a plan for reorganization of the association.

An expatriation of Murdaugh's viewpoint later telegraphed members of the association by Josh Skinner, his administrative assistant, in which Skinner said Murdaugh's refusal was predicated on law, met a sharp answer from members of the committee. They contended that no law was applicable.

J. Roy McGinty, vice president of the association and member of the committee, charged Murdaugh did not mention the law when visited by the body, but had merely stated the refusal was a "departmental policy." McGinty, a lawyer as well as an editor, commented that "even if there should be introduced by Major Clark Howell, president and publisher, the three-day session of the Georgia Press Institute will close tomorrow."

Marion Smith, chairman of the board of regents of the University System, will deliver the principal address. He will be the special guest of The Constitution and will be introduced by Major Clark Howell, president and publisher.

Following the address The Constitution will be host at a luncheon at the Georgian hotel. Allen Post, Atlanta attorney, will speak on the libel laws. He will be presented by H. H. Trotter, vice president and business manager of The Constitution.

The resolution attacking the public welfare director, declared that "if Murdaugh gets away with this ruling, some other official wishing to conceal financial operations of his department would attempt a similar abridgement of the right of reporters to inspect any and all public records, at any and all reasonable hours."

Information Asked.
The editors requested Murdaugh to "issue orders rescinding his untenable attitude toward the press."

Don't Be Penny-Wise and Aspirin-Foolish

There is never real economy in "cheapness." When pain and colds strike, take St. Joseph Aspirin—and enjoy the satisfaction of knowing that you are taking aspirin whose purity even exceeds the rigid requirements of the United States Pharmacopoeia.

and that the people of Georgia be furnished with any and all possible details regarding payments of pensions, and amounts received by each individual pensioner, if such information is requested by any newspaper."

The resolution pointed out that the welfare director had previously refused a request that the ruling be changed.

Skinner Quotes Law.
Murdaugh's viewpoint in the controversy as explained in the telegram sent Moore by Skinner was:

"In the absence of Mr. Murdaugh from the city and in view of resolutions adopted by the association, according to press reports here, please allow me to explain that the only information refused by the Public Welfare Department concerning Social Security Administration is that which the law prohibits the department from giving."

"Under the law, the department cannot publish the amount of money paid to each recipient. It is permissible for the department to furnish any person the names of persons drawing benefits of any kind, and this has been done on all occasions when requests have been made so far as the state department knows. However, it is not permissible for the department to furnish the amount each draws."

"This is a provision of the legislature and was inserted, I am informed, for the purpose of preventing the information from falling into the hands of those who might desire to filch payments from the recipients or otherwise embarrass them. All other records as to the individual recipients and as to the total amount of money distributed or spent in any county at all times are open."

"To my knowledge, only one newspaper has been insistent upon receiving the information the department is prevented from giving, and this is the Cartersville Tribune. The editor of this newspaper has declined utterly to recognize the fact that the department has to be guided by the law."

A plan for reorganizing the press association also was approved by members. It provides that the association will work with the University of Georgia and will employ a full-time field manager to work with editors and publishers throughout the state. An office for "service and information to editors" also will be maintained.

The president explained that no immediate change will be made in the set-up of the press association under the constitutional amendment permitting the employment of the field manager.

President Moore appointed a committee to rewrite the entire constitution. The committee is composed of Roy McGinty, of Calhoun; Otis Brumby, of Marietta; and Albert S. Hardy, of Gainesville.

W. T. Anderson, editor of the Macon Telegraph, spoke at a dinner tonight honoring the Georgia Collegiate Press Association.

EDITORS EAT 'HAM' TO OFFSET FEASTS

ATHENS, Ga., Feb. 25.—(AP) A Dutch treat supper tonight gave editors attending the Georgia Press Institute meeting the opportunity to eat plain "ham an' eggs an' grits."

Jere Moore, president of the Georgia Press Association, said it was an old-fashioned supper for editors weary of the fancy fare served at the round of luncheons and banquets for the newspapermen.

ner tonight honoring the Georgia Collegiate Press Association.

He declared that newspapers have been criticized by those "in high places" because they comment upon and hold up for analysis speech of politicians.

"They hold it up to analysis and show the weak spots in it," Anderson said. "They point out the fallacious features, they show the demagogic and insincere qualities, and politicians and dictators don't like that."

Other speakers on the day's program included Bruce McCoy, field manager for the Louisiana Press Association; Gilbert P. Farrar, of New York, newspaper restyling expert; Edward C. Crouse, associate professor in the Henry W. Grady School of Journalism, who outlined modern trends in newspaper make-up and typography, and Ernest Rogers, radio newscaster.

CHANCELLOR PRAISES PAPERS FOR AIDING STATE
ATHENS, Ga., Feb. 25.—News-papers of the state were praised tonight by Chancellor S. V. Sanford, of the University System of Georgia, for their part in helping to build a better Georgia.

Referring to campaigns for the improvement of agriculture, Chancellor Sanford said "nothing is so urgent today as soil conservation."

"We must conserve our soil or grow poorer each year," he continued. "More than a little of Georgia's low per capita productivity in agriculture can be accounted for by soil erosion, which has produced a large submarginal acreage, fit only for forestry and in some instances for permanent pastures."

Redfern Search Backer Pleads for Abandonment
SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Mrs. Gertrude E. Fox, financial backer of the Waldeck expedition which is searching for Paul Redfern, pleaded tonight for members of the party to abandon the hunt.

Mrs. Fox, of New York city, wife of Dr. Frederick J. Fox, who died of jungle fever contracted on the journey in Brit- ish Guiana, urged Dr. and Mrs. Theodore Waldeck, leaders of the expedition, not to risk their lives "when the possibility of finding the lost aviator is so slight."

The Waldeck party is the 13th to take up the search for Redfern, who disappeared on a flight from Brunswick, Ga., in 1927.

PASTOR SNUBS TRIO ON LIQUOR CHARGES

Gibson Refuses To Answer
Solons' Demand for Names.

The Rev. George Gibson, Columbus pastor, who charged it took $12,000 to pass the Georgia liquor bill in the legislature, yesterday refused to reply to the demands of three legislators that he either name the persons he accused of accepting bribes or publicly apologize to the general assembly.

The minister, who was quoted as charging he knew $12,000 was given to three legislators to vote wet, said he intends to get in no controversy with members of the assembly and that he "will leave the matter where it is."

Battle Continues.
This development came as the battle between the wets and dries continued on many fronts. In a number of counties, petitions for elections were nearing completion. Prohibitionists asserted they will not be satisfied until the constitutionality of the liquor law is settled by the state supreme court.

Representatives James V. Carmichael, of Cobb; William G. Hastings, of Fulton, and Spence Grayson, of Chatham, wrote Mr. Gibson a letter in answer to his charges, which were made at a W. C. T. U. meeting in Columbus. In the meantime, prohibitionists are preparing for two court battles already scheduled. Temporary orders restraining Baker and Upson counties from holding elections have been granted by superior court judges and hearings on permanent injunctions are to be held early next month.

Petition Next Week.
Prospects are that Fulton's petition seeking an election will be presented to Ordley Thomas H. Jeffries next week, Stuart P. Murray, chairman of a businessmen's committee on repeal, announced yesterday.

He said the ordinary asked that persons who have already signed the petition refrain from doing so again in order not to delay checking the list.

Murray asserted he hopes to have more than 17,000 names of qualified voters on his petition before the end of next week. He urged Atlantans to call at headquarters at 85 Forsyth street, N. W., to sign the petitions.

Petitions which must bear 35 per cent of qualified voters' names if an election is to be called are nearly ready in Bibb and Terrell counties. It was reported yesterday, in Baldwin county, another petition is being circulated.

Ask Test Now.
Bibb county commissioners requested dries to take whatever action they plan to halt the referendum there before the county goes to the expense of preparing for the election.

W. W. Gaines, chairman of the Consolidated Forces for Prohibition, said prohibitionists will fight the liquor law until the supreme court renders an opinion on its constitutionality. Dries contend it did not come within the Governor's call for a special session. Proponents claim it came within the call as a revenue measure.

BRITISH MYSTERY PLANE MISSING ON TEST HOP
LONDON, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Air-planes from seven royal air force stations searched in vain today for Britain's missing mystery plane over the rugged area from Northumberland to Aberdeenshire, long known as a "Jonah" to aviation.

The plane is one of three bombers specially designed for a non-stop world-girdling record attempt. The mystery craft took off before noon Wednesday for a practice flight.

Girl, Homesick, Finds Logical Cure

The best thing to do when you're homesick and 500 miles from home is to go home, a pretty 16-year-old Miami, Fla., high school co-ed decided here last night.

And having reached her decision, she called police, told them the whole story and was waiting at the police station last night for word from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Stalvey, in Miami. She had "had enough" of this life and her own, she admitted.

She gave her name as Juanita and said she left home February 11 "because I was angry." But when the $25 she left with melted away last night, she got hungry, entered a filling station at North avenue and West Peachtree street and told police to come after her.

Shaw Would Burn 'Autograph' School

TOLEDO, Ohio, Feb. 25.—(AP) If George Bernard Shaw had his way, Clay Township High school would be burned to the ground.

The noted English playwright and vegetarian wrote this reply to a freshman English class in the school in response to a request for his autograph:

"A school which teaches children to make nuisances of themselves by collecting autographs should be burnt to the ground.—G. Bernard Shaw."

DECISION HELD ON TAX REFUND

W. E. Mitchell Seeks $12,984 From 1931 Returns.

Reserving his decision on a petition filed by William Edward Mitchell, vice president and general manager of the Georgia Power Company, for refund of tax and penalty, Federal Judge William H. Barrett yesterday in Augusta ruled Mitchell did not make fraudulent income tax returns in 1931.

Mitchell, seeking a refund of a 50 per cent penalty amounting to $12,984.38 imposed by the government for an alleged error in the 1931 returns, had no comment to make here last night.

"Out of fairness to Mr. Mitchell," Judge Barrett said in Augusta, "I want to say that the testimony today does not indicate any fraud or dishonesty in his 1931 returns."

APARTMENT, HOME SOLD FOR $55,000

Twelve-Unit Structure and Former G. Lloyd Preacher Residence in Deals.

Two realty deals, involving approximately $55,000 cash—one a 12-unit apartment on Virginia avenue, the other the former home of G. Lloyd Preacher on Ponce de Leon avenue—were among important real estate transactions yesterday.

The 12-unit, three-story brick apartment is at 1197 Virginia avenue, Rosedale road. It was purchased from Mrs. Magnolia B. Kindig by W. L. Scruggs for a price understood to be about $30,000 cash. It is fully occupied and was purchased as an investment. The building occupies a lot fronting 132 feet on Virginia avenue and extending back 62 feet. The sale was handled by Sam Redwine, of the Adair Realty & Loan Company, realtors.

The former home of G. Lloyd Preacher, at 1827 Ponce de Leon avenue, one of the handsome residences of the Druid Hills section, was purchased by Clarence E. Elsas, formerly of New Orleans, from the Trust Company of Georgia for a consideration of $25,000 cash. It is a large two-story stucco residence of Spanish design, occupying a lot 150x612 feet, extending back to Euclid avenue. It is a fireproof structure. Before occupying it the new owner will extensively remodel it. This sale was handled by Edwin Haas Jr., of Haas & Dodd, realtors.

INSPECTORS PROBE SPRECKLES CRASH

Manufacturer's Son Unhurt,
But Pilot Loses Life.

RENO, Nev., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Department of Commerce inspectors tonight studied the early-morning takeoff crash of wealthy young Adolph Spreckles' luxurious airplane in which the pilot lost his life.

Spreckles, 26-year-old scion of the California sugar manufacturing family, escaped serious injury in the crash which killed 51-year-old Robert Hancock, Burlingame, Cal., flyer.

However, his former wife, pretty 28-year-old Lois Clarke de Ruyter Spreckles Clinton, three-divorced daughter of the wealthy New York banker, Lewis Latham Clarke, suffered a fractured pelvis and other injuries. Two other passengers, Mrs. Alex Young, 30, San Francisco, and Rex Leslie, 35, Spreckles, chauffeur, were not critically hurt.

9 PERSONS BOOKED IN COLLISION SERIES

6 Men and 3 Women Involved; Police Blame Right-of-Way.

Six men and three women were booked on reckless driving and accident charges yesterday by police as minor traffic accidents during the day rolled up a record for February.

The question of right-of-way at intersections caused the majority of the accidents, police reported.

Amos Lee, of a Tannal street address, and John McCall, of East Point, were booked after a crash at Nelson and Spring streets. Two women drivers, Mrs. Lovick Williams, of a Copeland street address, and Mrs. Corne Turner, of a Hansell street address, were given copies of charges after a crash at Gordon and Peoples streets.

Hugh Manning, of 1125 Peachtree street, and Mrs. J. J. Goodwin, of 728 Capitol avenue, were booked after Manning's truck was in collision with Mrs. Goodwin's car at the intersection of Crew and Crumley streets. Willie Reisman, of 585 Parkway drive, S. P. Clonts, of 322 Sidney street, and Nathan Sheridan, of 291 Atlanta avenue, were booked after collisions at other intersections. Police reported no one was injured in the crashes.

BERG, HOCKENJOS IN FINALS TODAY

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., Feb. 25. (UP)—Patty Berg, the Minneapolis schoolgirl who has won three tournaments this winter, today defeated her old rival, Marion Miley, the Lexington, Ky., brunette, 5 and 4, and went to the finals in the women's South Atlantic golf championship.

Miss Berg tomorrow will meet Mrs. William Hockenjos, Lake Hopatcong, N. J., who eliminated Defending Champion Kathryn Hemphill, Columbia, S. C., 1 up on the 20th.

It will be the first time Mrs. Hockenjos and Miss Berg have ever competed against each other in a tournament.

Miss Miley won only two holes and carded 70 for the 15, compared to Patty's 62.

Mrs. Hockenjos was one up at the turn. She went two up on the 11th. Miss Hemphill rallied to win the 15th and 18th to even the match. The 19th was halved and Mrs. Hockenjos won when the South Carolina girl missed a putt on the 20th.

Towns' Record of 13.7 May Not Be Accepted

PARIS, Feb. 25.—(UP)—Bitter opposition to approval of world records by two American athletes developed today when the rules and records committee of the International Amateur Athletic Federation met to prepare an accepted list of records to be presented to the opening session of the main group here Monday.

The committee studied 45 claims for world records made since 1936 and it appeared that all but two—by Jesse Owens, now a professional, and Forrest Towns, of Georgia—would be approved, which is tantamount to acceptance by the I. A. A. F.

The records opposed were 10.0 seconds for 100 meters, made by Owens in Chicago on June 20, 1936, and Towns' mark of 13.7 seconds for the 110-meter hurdles, made in Oslo, Norway, in 1936.

Owens' mark was up for adoption in Berlin in 1936 and was not approved because certificates of the mark said the track he created it on was a few inches short of 100 meters.

Towns' record, submitted by Norway because the mark was made there, was taken skeptically because it shattered the existing mark of 14.1 by four-tenths of a second. Even Towns himself has said he doubted he ran that fast.

Fighters Arrive Here by Dozens For Police Card

"In all my years of matchmaking I never saw anything like it," exclaimed Jim Downing yesterday as he scanned a packed gymnasium where several dozen fighters went through their paces either in preparation for fights on the Tuesday night benefit card at the Warren arena or in attempts to impress officials with the fact that they belong on the show.

"There must be 50 fighters in Atlanta," said the colorful Downing. "And a lot of them are first-rate. For instance, look at that boy over there. That is Hobo Williams, the famous Washington middleweight. Remember, he fought World Champion Freddie Steele a good fight several months ago. He probably won't appear on the Tuesday card, but he'll surely fight for us soon."

"There's another good one," said Jim, pointing to a huge warrior. "He's Jack Gagner, from California, a heavyweight, and he fought Kingfish Levinsky and a lot of the good ones with success. I may change my lineup around and send him in against Eddie O'Day Tuesday night."

In all, there will be 44 rounds, probably the most fighting ever offered in a Georgia ring. All the boys on the show and those who hope to get on the card that offers such performers as Battling Burroughs, Bobby O'Donnell, Young Allen and Carl Knowles will work out in public at the Warren arena Sunday at 2 p. m. and fans can get a first-hand view of what type of show will be offered.

Downing is highly impressed

ALLAN TOLMICH WILL BE 'SPEC'S' MAIN OPPONENT

NEW 65-Metre Hurdles Record Likely Will Be Set.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—(UP)—World track and field records are expected to be shattered in wholesale lots tomorrow night when the nation's outstanding athletes swing into action in the 50th annual national indoor championships at Madison Square Garden.

At least seven metric marks are expected to fall before the onslaughts of the greatest field ever assembled in the nationals since they went on a metric basis in 1933. In the field are holders of 21 world records, three Olympic marks, 17 American records and 18 championship records.

RECORDS LOOM. The world marks expected to be lowered are the 60-meter sprint, 65-meter high hurdles, 1,500-meter run, 5,000-meter run, 1,000-meter relay, 2,900-meter relay and 1,600-meter relay. In addition, Don Lash, the Indiana "iron horse" who will run in the 5,000, has asked that special timers be placed at the three-mile mark because he intends to shoot for that record while trying to win the 5,000-meter title.

Perhaps the most certain mark to be lowered is the 6.8 second record for 60 meters set by Jesse Owens and Ben Johnson in 1935. Johnson, the defending champion, has done six seconds flat this year for 60 yards and should be able to clip a tenth of a second from the metric distance.

ARCH RIVALS. The 65-meter hurdles, with a world record of 8.6 set by Percy Beard in 1933 and equaled in 1935, brings together a pair of runners who have turned in record-equaling or record-breaking performances every time they met in the Garden this season over a "yardage" course. They are Allan Tolmich, of Detroit, and Forrest (Spec) Towns, of Georgia.

This will be Towns' final appearance as an amateur. He will assume his duties as assistant track coach at the University of Georgia at an early date.

In the 1,500-meter run—highlight of the meet—the year's trio of outstanding milers, Glenn Cunningham, Gene Venzke and Archie San Romani, will shoot for a record.

All the relay marks are in danger, with the Curb Exchange, because it has on its team, Cunningham, Jim Herbert and Charley Beetham, favored to lower the 1,000 and 2,900 marks. N. Y. U.'s speedy team is favored to turn in a record performance in the 1,600.

SPORTLIGHT - - By Grantland Rice

VIA CHARON, THE ANCIENT BOATMAN. (To Don Marquis, Odd McIntyre, George Daley, Bill MacBeth, Eddie Nell, Bill McNutt and others of the old guard who recently have beaten us to the border.)

There are too many gaps in the ranks I knew when the ranks I knew were young. When the roll is called, there are still too few who answer "Here!" when the call is due—There are too many songs unsung. But Charon's boat is a busy barque—And the dock gets closer as dusk grows dark.

Pilot—who looks to your river trade Where the shadowy Styx rolls by—You've taken your pick for the mystic glade, Lardner—McGeehan—and Hammond's shade Drifts through a starless sky—And somewhere—deep in the reedy tarn—Boze Bulger is spinning another yarn.

Charon—answer me this today—From all of the world's corral, Why do you always look my way? I'm not worried about your play—But why do you pick my pals? From the inn we knew where the flagons foam, One by one you have called them home.

One by one, on a mist-blown eve, Wearing your ghostly hood, I've seen you plucking them by the sleeve, Telling them each it was time to leave, Just as the show got good. With a lifted glass, as I looked about, I've seen them leave as the tide rolled out.

Charon—I'm sorry I failed the test—You're not the one to blame—You picked the brightest—you picked the best—You carried them off to a dreamless rest That towers above all fame. Don—Odd—Percy—and Bill and Ring—No wonder the angels sob and sing!

Listen, Pilot, the last of all Who knows where the journey ends—When you have come to the final call Where the candle flutters against the wall, Kindly forget my friends. For friends are all that a little earth Has yet to give that has any worth.

Fame and gold? They are less than dust—Less than an April song—They are less than weeds in the earth's dull crust When a friendly hand in your own is thrust And an old maid comes along. But dock lights flame with a sudden flare—And Charon beckons—and who is there?

The flame of the inn is dim tonight—Too many vacant chairs—The sun has lost too much of its light—Too many songs have taken flight—Too many ghosts on the stairs—Charon—here's to you—as man against man—I wish I could pick 'em the way you can.

Two more days!

Lefty's Wife Didn't 'Act Like a Wife'

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—(UP)—Vernon (Lefty) Gomez, New York Yankees' pitcher, answered his wife's separation suit charges today with the assertion that the former June O'Dea, of musical comedy, refused to "act as a wife" for seven months after their marriage because she was afraid to "spoil her figure."

In papers filed in supreme court today, Gomez denied his wife's charges of habitual intoxication. He said she never displayed affection for him, drank to excess, ridiculed the wives of other baseball players and refused to accompany the team on trips.

He said she was afraid to "spoil her figure."

Red Dugan Injured In East Point Bout

The Chattanooga wrestler known as Red Dugan the Terror, was injured in his bout with Jack McAdams at the East Point auditorium last night.

An ambulance was summoned after Dugan failed to gain consciousness and he was hurried to a local hospital.

The match between Dugan and his opponent was rough throughout. The Chattanooga boy tried to dispose of his opponent in a hurried manner, but after 35 minutes of free-for-all, McAdams caught the red-head with a kangaroo kick, sending him over the top ropes. Dugan landing on his head on the cement floor below.

Frank Remile, the Birmingham butcher, was disqualified in his bout with Young Goch. The referee gave Goch the match when Remile tried every known foul in the books to beat him.

'Bed Holidays' End After 11 Operations

Ernest Towns, Burned When He Ignited Cresote, in Hospital 15 Months.

By LEE FUHRMAN.

A man who spent 15 months and 15 days in a hospital here beamed yesterday at prospects of going home tomorrow.

The patient was Ernest Towns, 29, of Tucker, Ga., who has passed two birthdays, two Thanksgiving's, two Christmas's and two New Year's days in Georgia Baptist hospital since he was admitted November 10, 1936, suffering a badly burned right leg.

"They've all been nice to me around here," he said, grasping the narrow horizontal bar of his wooden exercise frame and pulling himself to a sitting position. "But I'll sure be glad to leave, after all this time."

During Towns' hospitalization he went to the operating room 11 times. Flesh from his arms and left leg was grafted to the burned limb. Now, although the leg is thinner than the other, he and the doctors hope for complete recovery.

"I don't remember much about the first holidays here," he said. "They weren't holidays for me. I was in too much pain."

He told of his accident. He was working on a construction job at Davis Street school, using cresote. Every few minutes he wiped his hands on his trousers legs.

"I wanted a smoke," he said, "and I put a cigaret in my mouth. Then, without thinking, I struck a match on my trousers. The cloth became aflame."

Exercised on "Trapeze." A fellow worker threw Towns to the ground and extinguished the fire. Doctors at first thought he would lose the limb, but Towns fought through gamely. A patient sufferer, he was popular with doctors and nurses.

When the leg began to heal a bit, a wooden frame was erected around his bed. A set of trapeze enabled him to pull himself up and get exercise. Determination and the will to get better aided greatly to his progress, doctors said.

Towns is married and the father of two sons, Lamar, 6, and Crawford, 4. His family plans a big home-coming for him.

"When my next birthday comes, December 8, I hope to be dancing around to celebrate," he concluded.

'HATCHET MAN' HACKS READER IN LIBRARY

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—(AP)—An eccentric student of economics, who studied in the public library with a hatchet strapped to one of his wrists, hacked and seriously injured another reader tonight because their legs became entangled under a table.

Guards, after a chase through the halls of the staid old library at Fifth avenue and Forty-second street, overpowered the assailant and turned him over to police. He was not immediately identified.

The victim, John C. Abbott, 32, was in Bellevue hospital with compound fractures and deep head wounds. His condition was reported critical.

MEMORIAL DAY SPEAKER

SYLVANIA, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Mrs. E. K. Overstreet, Sr., president of the Screven county chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, said today the Rev. Julian R. Dell, of Savannah, will speak at Memorial Day exercises here. The old Dell house, at near-by Jacksonboro, former seat of Screven county, is to be marked as the county's most historic spot.

News of Gate City Told in Paragraphs

Atlanta Club will sponsor a dance tonight at the Biltmore hotel, Mrs. John Peel, chairman of the arrangements committee, announced yesterday. The club is comprised of women employees of the city hall.

Dosh William Durden Jr., Atlanta youth who is a cadet lieutenant at Riverside Military Academy, was recently awarded a gold pin in recognition of his excellent academic work at that institution.

Mary Hollingsworth, of Florence, Ala., and Eliza King, of Columbia, S. C., will represent Agnes Scott College at the southeastern conference of International Relations Clubs to be held March 4 and 5 at Vanderbilt University.

Southside singing convention will meet at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Antioch Baptist church. The meeting will be open to the public, Miss Marian Davis, secretary, said.

"Power and Beauty of Truth" will be the subject of the lecture by Mrs. Rose Marie Ashby, practical psychologist, at 3:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the Ansley hotel. The public is invited.

Cantor B. Kapov-Kagan, of New York, president of the Rabbinis' and Cantors' Association of the United States and Canada, will sing at the Jewish Educational Alliance at 6:30 o'clock tomorrow night.

Condition of Doris Yarbrough, 17-year-old Girls' High school senior, accidentally shot by an "unloaded" pistol a week ago, was reported "much improved" yesterday at Emory University hospital. She was shot through the body when a friend snapped the trigger while pointing what he thought was an unloaded gun at her.

Knocked down by a hit-and-run bicyclist as he played in front of his home at 491 Flat Shoals avenue, S. E., Donald Smith, 3 years old, was taken to Grady hospital with a fractured leg yesterday.

Newly-elected deacons of the Oakhurst Presbyterian church, who will be ordained and installed after the morning services tomorrow, include George Barnes, J. T. Peters street, firemen reported. The mats were ignited by a bucket of hot ashes. Passers-by called firemen upon seeing the rear of the shop in flames.

Arrested on reckless driving and accident charges after his automobile struck a negro on Edgewood avenue at Fort street Thursday night, Bernard Mitchell, 21, of 552 West Peachtree street, will be given a hearing before the recorder at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. He is being held under $1,000 bond. The negro was listed as Frank Brown at Grady hospital, where his condition was described as "very poor."

MRS. W. J. TRAVIS' RITES HELD IN TENNESSEE

Funeral services for Mrs. W. J. Travis, 85, widow of a Confederate army officer, and grandmother of Miss Alice Berry, of the city comptroller's office, were held yesterday in Tullahoma, Tenn.

In ill health for several months, Mrs. Travis died at her home in Tullahoma Thursday. Surviving in addition to Miss Berry are four daughters, Mrs. Gertrude Crowder, of Atlanta; Mrs. George Berry, of the Misses Olive and Eva Travis, of Tullahoma.

'Miss West End' Title Awarded Olga Hamilton

Miss Olga Hamilton was chosen Miss West End last night in a contest sponsored by the West End Post No. 147, American Legion and Auxiliary, at the West End Woman's Club.

Chosen as the most beautiful of 14 young ladies sponsored by West End business houses, a silver loving cup was presented to Miss Hamilton. Misses Jeryl Hendrix and Betty Smith, who placed second and third, were awarded large boxes of candy.

The judges were Mrs. Bess P. Huie, William G. McRae, Arthur Dugan, Mrs. J. M. Toomey, A. L. Henson, George W. Harris and W. M. Gilleland. Dr. L. M. Burrows acted as toastmaster.

A dance concluded the program.

SENATE TO CONFIRM $5,000 APPOINTEES

Votes Self Right To Act on Non-Civil Service Jobs and Lawyers.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Amid charges that it was setting up a "political pie counter," the senate voted itself today the right to confirm appointments of non-civil service "experts" and lawyers paid $5,000 a year or more by independent government agencies.

The insistence of Senator Norris, Independent, Nebraska, the chamber excluded the Tennessee Valley Authority from the proposition, however.

The provision for senate confirmation of the $5,000-a-year appointees was contained in an amendment by Senator McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, to the independent offices appropriations bill.

Norris stirred up an oratorical tempest with his charge that McKellar's amendment would put the appointments "on the political pie counter."

The elderly Nebraska declared the amendment, if applied to TVA, would damage that agency "irreparably if not ruin it entirely" because it would have to consider sectional lines in employing the experts needed for its successful operations. McKellar then agreed to exclude TVA.

Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia, rebuked Norris for speaking "in a very contemptuous tone of voice" about senators. He asserted that Norris, in charging that senate confirmation would tar the appointments with politics, "seems to think that the senators are mere politicians."

ARMY ORDERS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—Army orders today included: Lieutenant Colonel William H. S. Morris Jr., Infantry, Fort Benning, Ga., to Washington, D. C.

Major Marcus B. Bell, Infantry, Fort Benning, Ga., to Jefferson Barracks, Mo.

Captain Frank O. Bowman, engineers' corps, Washington, D. C., to Fort Benning, Ga.

Captain Charles V. Bromley Jr., cavalry, Fort Benning, Ga., to Fort Ringgold, Texas.

GENERAL MOTORS REDUCES SALARIES

Cuts Scale From 10 Per Cent Under $10,000 to 30 on More Than $50,000.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—(AP)—General Motors Corporation today announced pay cuts of 10 per cent for salaried workers receiving up to $10,000 annually and deeper slashes for executives in the high pay brackets, effective March 1.

Alfred P. Sloan Jr., chairman of corporation, said the action was taken because of the "drastic reduction" in General Motors business. The cut, he added, was an adjustment of compensation of the salaried employee, pointing out the corporation's "wage earners are receiving substantially less than formerly as a result of the decrease in the number of working hours."

Informed circles estimated the cut would affect about 40,000 workers. Sloan's announcement said: "Executives receiving salaries of more than $10,000 annually will receive a reduction of 20 per cent additional on any excess above $10,000 and up to $50,000. Executives receiving more than $50,000 annually will receive an additional reduction of 30 per cent on the excess above $50,000 annually."

The announcement stirred conjecture as to how much would be lopped off the salaries of the high executives. Sloan's 1936 salary was believed to have been $150,000, but he received in addition more than $400,000 under the corporation's bonus plan. This made total compensation of around $551,000, as revealed by authority of the house ways and means committee a few weeks ago.

However, the corporation explained the reductions were against fixed salaries without reference to bonuses which are paid only when profits reach a certain level.

MANCHUKUO TO AID IN JAPANESE PLANS

Mobilization Act Identical With That Now Being Enacted in Tokyo.

TOKYO, Saturday, Feb. 26.—(UP)—Plans to make Manchukuo an integral part of the Japanese empire in times of "emergency" were disclosed today when the Domei News Agency reported from Hsinking that the Japanese-controlled Manchukuo government had promulgated a "general mobilization act" practically identical with that now being enacted by the Japanese parliament.

The act would give the Japanese army, which controls Manchukuo, the same dictatorial powers over the economic, commercial and financial life of that country that it will enjoy at home when Premier Prince Fumimaro Koyama's government finally forces the Japanese mobilization act through parliament.

Domei said the proposed Manchukuo law is intended to enable the government in Hsinking "to mobilize the entire manpower and all material resources of Manchukuo in time of emergency."

The proposed law (which is certain of adoption) is intended to function simultaneously with the same measures in Japan proper.

"A date for enforcement of the law is expected to be announced soon."

Meantime there was no indication how soon the lower house here would finish its debate on the mobilization measure which already has met violent opposition from liberals and commercial organizations who allege that sections of it violate the constitution.

O'CONNOR VERDICT IS ORDERED PROBED

District Attorney Directed To Find If Jury Was Influenced.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 25.—(AP) Judge Sloane directed the district attorney's office today to investigate the acquittal of Mary O'Connor in the death of five-year-old Nancy Glenn.

"You are to discover whether or not improper forces were brought to bear upon any member or members of the jury," Judge Sloane told Assistant District Attorney Maurer.

"It is your duty to place this matter before the grand jury if further investigation indicated that course should be pursued."

Miss O'Connor was acquitted of charges of murder, manslaughter and involuntary manslaughter last week.

Convictions Listed On Drivers' Permits

AMERICUS, Feb. 25.—Persons convicted of violating state traffic laws in the city court of Americus have their convictions and sentences recorded on their drivers' licenses.

Judge James W. Smith, presiding, has passed sentences recently on three persons convicted of violating these laws, and in each instance the fact of such convictions have been entered upon their drivers' licenses by H. E. Zeller, clerk of the court, on orders of the court.

UTILITIES 'GIFTS' DENIED BY WILLKIE

Power Executive Says He Did Not Meet Davey With Lee Bradley.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Wendell Willkie, president of the Commonwealth & Southern Corporation, informed the Ohio senate investigating committee tonight that "to the best of my recollection I never met" Governor Martin L. Davey in the company of Lee Bradley, who had told the senate committee that the Governor dealt with utilities and motor companies in an attempt to solicit campaign contributions.

The committee asked Willkie today for amplification and "retraction" of statements he made in a previous telegram.

Willkie, mentioned by Bradley before the committee, replied to newspapers in a telegram, which he said he also sent to the committee:

"So far as I recall I only met Mr. Bradley once when he came to my office alone after making an appointment with my secretary as a sales representative of the Davey Tree Expert Company. I repeat that Mr. Bradley's testimony concerning me is entirely false."

Bradley has testified he solicited campaign contributions and "tree-trimming contracts" from utilities for Davey in 1934.

The committee's telegram pointed out that the Congressional Record showed an investigation of utilities was in progress in 1934, although Willkie has said Bradley was in error in testifying about such an inquiry at that time.

11-INCH SNOWFALL HITS NEW ENGLAND

Man Killed in Maine, Bay State Traffic Is Tangled by Icy Highways.

BOSTON, Feb. 25.—(AP)—One man was killed and many persons were injured in automobile accidents in New England tonight as a blinding, northerly snowstorm covered northern sections to a depth of 11 inches and gave Massachusetts highways a slippery coating of ice.

At York, Maine, Merle Stewart, 20, of Rumford, Maine, was killed when a car in which he was a passenger skidded into a cable fence and turned over.

At Beverly, the name of Elric Duscharme, 43, of Boston, was on a hospital danger list and 12 other persons were treated for injuries suffered in a collision involving a bus and an automobile.

Traffic on Route 128 in Needham was snarled for more than two hours as more than 300 automobiles were held up by an oil truck which skidded on a steep grade and straddled the highway.

Snowfall in Boston reached 2-1/2 inches at midnight and was apparently over. At Laconia, N. H., snow fell to a depth of 11 inches and at other New Hampshire points recordings varied from 7 to 10 inches.

$100,000 LOSS CAUSED BY BAY STATE FIRE

Paint and Lacquer Explode at Gardner Plant.

GARDNER, Mass., Feb. 25.—(UP)—Fire raging through the south wing of the Greenwood-Carlton Corporation plant tonight menaced the business section of South Gardner and caused $100,000 damage.

Paint and lacquer drums stored in the wing, constructed in 1875, exploded and rocked the surrounding neighborhood. Sparks from the three-story structure ignited the near-by home of State Representative Fred A. Blake.

SCHOOL ERECTIONS WILL START SOON

$200,000 Structures Expected To Be Ready for 1938-39 Term.

Construction will begin in the next two weeks on approximately $200,000 worth of Fulton county school buildings, School Superintendent Jere A. Wells said yesterday. Building of a grammar school for the north section of the county will begin March 7, while construction of Hapeville High school is scheduled to start March 15.

Both projects were financed by the Works Progress Administration and the county. A third WPA-county project, a $125,000 high school for the Center Hill district, is still under consideration in Washington.

The two approved buildings will be ready for occupancy before the 1938-39 school term starts, Wells said, but unless the Center Hill school is approved at an early date it will not be opened until after next Christmas.

The grammar school, to be erected on a tract adjacent to North Fulton High school, will cost an estimated $97,712. It will house 450 students.

Hapeville High school is to be built on a five-acre tract donated by the city of Hapeville at an estimated cost of $96,700. It will accommodate 350 students.

The Center Hill project will be built at the intersection of Hollywood road and Bankhead highway. It will accommodate 650 students.

PWA EMPLOYS 1,545 ON GEORGIA JOBS

Regional Office Discloses 10,000 Persons Working in 9 Southeast States.

Employment is being given 1,545 persons in Georgia on projects of the Public Works Administration, the regional office of the PWA announced yesterday.

In the nine southeastern states, 10,000 persons are working on PWA projects.

The amount of money disbursed by the PWA is based on the number of applications for loans and grants. The government supplies 45 per cent of the funds in loans and grants and the owners the remainder.

Projects under construction included hospitals, municipal buildings, waterworks, schools, prisons and sewers.

DELTA AIR LINES ALTERS SCHEDULES

Eastbound Traffic Changes Effective March 1.

MY DAY

By Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Thursday.—We had two teas yesterday afternoon. The first one was for the Society of Sponsors, who are the christeners of naval ships and come together for a meeting once a year. Last year I went to their luncheon, but this year, having another engagement at the luncheon hour, I invited them to have tea with me. I was much interested to see my co-sponsors from many different states.

At 5 o'clock we had a larger tea and to this my little granddaughter, Chandler, came as a hostess with me, for she had no playmates and was a bit lonely. I told her she could help the butlers see that the guests were fed, if she was very careful not to drop a plate! Before long, however, I found her next to me shaking hands with our guests. A little later she was piloting me towards the elevator as fast as she could, with the idea of getting more attention for herself and less for the tea guests!

Our invalids are improving today. Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt arrived last night, which was a great pleasure and comfort for her children, and a pleasure and relief to me.

I have seldom had as delightful an evening of music as we had last night. Mr. Rene Leroy played the flute and Mr. Leveque, a French pianist, accompanied him and played a number of additional selections for us. This is Mr. Leveque's first trip to this country, but Mr. Leroy has come to me for a number of years ever since he brought me a letter of introduction on his initial trip to the United States.

I hoped to have a visit this week from a young American singer who sang for us when he was still in college. He has been giving concerts in England for the last year or more. He came back for a short visit and I was most anxious to hear him again, but he had engagements in England which he returned to fill and I fear we have missed seeing him on this trip.

The President came in late yesterday evening and the first person who met him this morning marveled how rested he looked after five days in the country. There is nothing so beneficial as a return to the surroundings of your youth.

I have just come from a luncheon with the District of Columbia League of Women Voters. They are the one voteless league and feel their lack of direct power. In spite of that, I think they are doing a remarkable piece of work. The reports from their committee chairmen were concise and interesting.

The play presented by Mrs. David Cushman Coyle's committee on the relief situation in Washington was so well done I felt I was actually in a relief office facing a real situation. These situations can be duplicated all over the country again and again. I only wish every citizen could sit behind the desk for a half a day in any one of the relief headquarters and listen to the stories. It would help us to a true sense of values and give us a better picture of the needs of the people of the country.

TODAY'S CHARM TIP

A gesture of welcome is included in the handshake of the hostess who extends her hand, slightly curved, with palms up, whereas a straightforward shove of the hand repels.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Getting along in years, partner, with that out of the swim-and-don't-care-if-I-am feeling smothering you half to death? It comes on around age 50 when you look in the mirror at dry skin, crooked feet around the eyes, turkey gobbler neck, faded hair and floppy forearms. If you won't do something about it you'll be dead long before they lay you away. There's plenty you can do even if the old self-starter isn't working and the motor has to be primed and cranked to get it going.

A woman's vanity is the last thing about her to die and when it's dead "there's nothing left but two dark copper pennies for her eyes." So here's the starting point: To get the better of age 50 a female must have the assurance that comes only with looking her best. Pocketbook, full, she can pay the experts to steam her, rub her, and exercise her. Pocketbook flat, she can roll on the floor exercise on Shank's mare, curl her hair and do her nails.

When she looks her best then she's ready to go to town to find some interests and they are to be found on every hand. Churches, clubs, people, hobbies, good works. During the first half-century we may be able to get by with selfish living but on the second lap we have to get busy doing something for others. Our little world that once revolved about us has then shrunk and slowed and stopped and we must now take our turn at revolving.

There must be new friends to replace lost ones, friends of both sexes to keep us from getting lopsided, youthful friends to keep us in tune with the times—that ain't what they used to be. Elsie de Wolf Mendi, still lithe and lively though past her three score years and ten is asked the secret of her perennial youth. "Good health," she says, "and a lifelong preference for youthful company."

Young folks are fine medicine for what ails us when we are fiftyish. Their illusions are intact, their enthusiasms at fever pitch. They are in the very act of squeezing the juice out of life and it hasn't occurred to them that there can be a last drop. Their

HEALTH TALKS

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

DOCTOR DUCK AND PROFESSOR DODGE.

Many times I have cited here and recommended as the best textbook available Rosenau's "Preventive Medicine and Hygiene," published by D. Appleton-Century Company and obtainable in all public libraries. It is still the best textbook in my opinion. So the intelligent reader will not assume the comments in this article have any personal significance.

The book is a 1,500-page volume, which sets the purchaser back ten bucks—rather too much for a layman's health library. The publishers of the fifth edition (1927) gave me a copy, for the public welfare. But when the present sixth edition came out, the public welfare was no longer in danger, so I had to dig down for the ten bucks for my copy. I say it is the sixth edition—and I say it is the LAST edition, so far as I am concerned. I feel sadly unbecomingly. This LAST edition is not frankly dated on the title page, as were earlier editions; but the work is dated passo so far as my interest goes. Why can't professional textbook makers gracefully retire from active work when they have attained retiring age—functional age, not chronological? Why do they permit their names to be exploited by the commercial ambition of publishers long after the spell of the name has been forgotten?

Although the wording of the chapter on "Common Colds"—whatever they may be the author gratefully avoids defining—is changed in minor particulars, some few sentences of mere blabla deleted, the LAST edition of Rosenau is as quaint as the first edition. I defy any one of sound mind to read what this formerly great textbook says about the effects of drafts, colds and the like, and then tell us what the author's theory, belief or teaching is Rosenau's.

For example, not a word or hint in the book about the usual mode of infection with respiratory infection—that is, via conversational spray. No medical or health authority who acknowledges the "risk of persons coughing or sneezing directly in one's face" can now fail to acknowledge the associated risk of persons politely talking in one's face. The only difference is that the spray of open-face coughing or sneezing is in visible or palpable droplets and carries up to 10 or 12 feet, whereas the spray given off from mouth and nose during ordinary quiet conversation is mostly composed of invisibly fine droplets and carries less than five feet.

The big shots in sanitation and public health had better become reconciled to the growing popular enlightenment and readjust their fancies and teachings to conform with modern views. The day of Doctor Duck and Professor Dodge is done. People are fed up with the old medical hokum. Public health teachings are effective only when they contain good common sense.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Just Plain Old Iodin.

For a long time have wanted to ask what you think of using So's and So's iodine for your iodine ration? (M. V. C.)

Answer.—No. Iodin plain, old tincture of iodine (iodine to old-timers) is as soluble and as satisfactory in all respects as any special preparation. To adolescents or adults who are prematurely aging, stale, gloomy. I will be glad to send instructions for "Taking an Iodin Ration." Enclose a three-cent stamped envelope bearing your address. slang says more than all our old sayings and platitudes. Their minds are open and sensitive to new ideas. Nothing about them is stereotyped. Even when they indulge in the pet pastime of the oldsters—gossip—it's kindly and amusing rather than critical and cruel.

Getting along in years, partner, and slumping into old age? Don't do it. Prime and crank up the old motor, give it the gas and start to town on two wheels. You can always find somebody to ride with you when you're going somewhere.

Your Figure, Madame!

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

DANCERS SHOW WAY TO KEEP YOUR YOUTH.

Rheumatism is what you get from sitting in rocking chairs. . . . In fact, that's what you get for sitting in them!

And there, in no uncertain terms, is what Hanya Holm thinks of the whole business of growing old. This famous leader of the modern dance, however, believes in clinching an argument. She is not a bit backward, about expressing the opinion that you have to stretch your leg muscles to out-distance Father Time, and that you have to dance to keep in step with youth.

A glimpse of this firebrand of rhythm in action would show you what she means. She has the figure of a Greek goddess, and age never was any problem to the Greek goddesses. But, as might be pointed out, Miss Holm is young to serve as an example of agelessness and you may be interested in one of her pupils who is 76 years old. This dance enthusiast enters into the spirit of things with the bounce and abandon of a six-year-old and has a figure that would do credit to a woman half her age.

A warming-up measure in the dance is to stand with feet fairly wide apart, hands down at sides, knees straight, and bounce! Do not bend the knees. Spring up and down rhythmically, getting yourself several inches off the floor and coming down with a bounce, not a thud! This is good exercise. The 76-year-old dancer can do it 50 times. Can you?

Stretching the leg muscles is an important exercise in the modern dance and will prevent the muscles along the backs of the legs from becoming foreshortened. Miss Holm says it will keep you from becoming stiff-kneed and rheumatic. Here is the way she tells you to do it: Sit down on the floor, legs wide apart, knees

EXERCISE 4

POSITION

MOVEMENT

This exercise isn't too easy, but will work wonders.

straight. Keeping the back straight, lean over and grasp the right foot in both hands and pull your trunk down toward your toes. It hurts? Then it is just what you need, because unless those muscles were short this stretch would not hurt. Try it with the other leg and then change the exercise. Instead of bringing the torso down to the foot, lift the foot and try to touch the forehead with the instep. Of course, keep the knees straight!

There you have a combination of exercises for legs, abdominal muscles and back muscles. The idea is to have back straight and knees straight. You may also lie back on the floor and raise the straight leg toward the head in an attempt to touch the forehead. Alternate the legs and make your movements rhythmic.

Another exercise which may cause you to feel for broken bones is this one. Get into position by standing on the knees, which are rather wide apart, on the floor. Then sit back between the legs and on the floor. Do not sit on the feet. They should be tucked back and out at the sides of the body. Hold the arms straight out from the sides, and move the body forward from the hips. Come as close to the floor as you can without falling on your face, then move backward until you are sitting upright, but between the legs, as in the first position.

In dancing, the aim is to develop rhythm and grace—not to exercise! And in exercise the aim might well be to retain the youthful and beautifully proportioned figure of a dancer. Incorporate these dance movements in your figure program.

EASY TO GROW UNUSUAL PLANTS IN FASCINATING GLASS GARDENS

SOIL OR FIBRE

STARTING FERNS

Amazing—these little glass gardens! You can grow miniature forest in one—from tiny trees to tinier ferns. Or turn it into a nursery for cuttings. Or make it a hothouse for the exotic orchid. No fuss or bother. You simply line the bottom of your container with moss—placing it so the green shows outside. Then you add soil or fiber, put in seeds or plants and let the terrarium do the rest of the job. The glass top shuts dry air out, keeps air inside so evenly warm and moist you rarely need to add water.

Right now you can get a thrill starting new ferns. Peg down the runners from your house plants with hairpins, as in sketch. Move the little plants to the terrarium when rooted. For a colorful gay companion—add a heliotrope or begonia slip.

Fun, too, to experiment. Try wild flowers, grasses, weeds. Startling how the lowly chickweed turns exotic under glass.

And now what about a tall jar of apple blossoms and bridal wreath? Easy to force branches of any flowering tree or shrub into early bloom by keeping them in water in a humid spot.

Many more pointers on indoor gardens and terrariums are given in our 40-page booklet, Success With House Plants and Flowers. Tips on spring and summer care.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

By MRS. MARY MORTON.

Beef Pot Roast Riced Potatoes
Harvard Beets Cabbage Salad
Date Cake Tea or Coffee
I would use a mild dressing for the cabbage salad, as the beets have a tart taste.

Today's Recipes.

Harvard Beets—Twelve small beets or two cups cooked beets, cubed; two tablespoons butter, one-half tablespoon cornstarch, one-fourth cup sugar, one-half cup mild vinegar, one-half teaspoon salt. Canned or cooked beets may be used. The small beets may be left whole, if desired. Melt butter in a saucepan. Add cornstarch and blend it in well (three-fourths tablespoon flour may be used instead). Stir in sugar. Add vinegar slowly, stirring it in carefully to make a smooth paste. Add beets and let stand in a warm place until beets are warmed through and nicely flavored with the sauce. Add salt and pepper, and more sugar, if needed. This amount serves four.

Date Cake—Two-thirds cup butter, one and one-half cups brown sugar, three eggs, three and one-half cups flour, five teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon nutmeg, one teaspoon salt, one and one-fourth cups sweet milk, one and one-half cups dates, chopped. Cream butter and sugar together. Add well-beaten eggs. Beat until light and fluffy. Sift flour once. Measure. Add baking powder, cinnamon, nutmeg and salt, and sift again. Add dry ingredients alternately with milk to butter mixture. Add dates, which have been pitted and chopped. Mix well. Bake in buttered tube or loaf pan in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 50 or 60 minutes.

For Miss Wallace.

Mrs. L. F. Nickel will be hostess today at a bridge luncheon honoring Miss Mary Carline Wallace, bride-elect, at her home on Hudson drive.

Guests will include Mesdames Milner Wallace, Paul Carpenter, Witherspoon Wallace, M. M. Wain, M. M. Wain, Leon Perkinson, M. M. Morgan, Misses Lillian Carpenter, Gwen Altman, Catherine Morgan, Alice Lee Wallace, Ella Wallace, Amanda Muench, Betty Decker.

Theta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi entertained at a surprise dinner recently in compliment to Miss Wallace.

Present were Mesdames Martha Pattillo, Margaret Field, Edith Horton, Miriam Woodall, Gwen Altman, Margaret Rhodes, Leon Lamb, Ernestine Peggam and Mrs. Doris Perkinson.

Wife Preservers

For your next children's party divide the children into two groups, and place the groups five feet apart. Give one player an inflated toy balloon which he must knock toward the opposing group by striking it with the flat of his hand. The other side returns the balloon, and the players keep batting it back and forth. Every time either side fails to bat the balloon back, or allows it to fall to the floor, a point is scored by the other side. The first side scoring ten points wins the game.

Barbara Bell Styles

Number 1495.

For holidaying in warm resorts or for spring wear in town this slenderly tailored frock is charmingly adapted to any daytime occasion. Cut on simple lines for chic and ease of construction, it will present no problem to the inexperienced home dressmaker. The very fashionable skirt is distinctive with its all-around pleats stitched flat over the hips for a smooth, slender silhouette, nicely in proportion to the simple shirtwaist type top. Over a turned-back self-collared and narrow cuffs, detachable collar and cuffs of snowy pique are flattering and fashionable and the white accent is carried out by four composition buttons at the smart front closing. Cool dotted Swiss voile, colorfast and with a smooth permanent finish which survives any amount of tubbing, is eminently practical in navy and white for the model pictured. An attractive flower of shredded pique adds a gay note for street wear.

Barbara Bell pattern No. 1495 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 40 and 42. Corresponding bust measurements 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 (34) requires 5 1/4 yards of 39-inch material with short sleeves. With long sleeves 5 5/8 yards. Collar and cuffs in contrast requires 5-8 yards 35 or 39-inch material.

Fabric credit: The fabric pictured in dotted Swiss voile, washable and colorfast, 40 inches wide. About 85 cents a yard.

Barbara Bell pattern No. 1495 can be purchased for 15 cents. Please remit in coins, giving your name, address, pattern number and size. Do not send stamps.

PLEASANT HOMES

By ELIZABETH M'RAE BOYKIN.

MEANT TO BE USED.

Are you shy—clear of guest towels? If so, you probably have annoyed hostesses in your wake, because guest towels are a lot more than they look.

We even go one step further. We believe in more guest towels, or at least guest-size towels, for practical than they look. And they're meant to be used, for all their frivolous design. The hostess' idea is that they're small and easy to wash, so it's better to use one, then put it in the hamper, than to muss up a big towel for such incidental use.

family use. And for the same reason as for guest towels. Not that we are advocating only small towels—goodness, how the men of the town would scowl on us for that! No, we only mean that an assortment is the handiest thing; some big, some little, some middle sized, so that big ones aren't wasted when a little one would do.

Dark Dress Linen.

And towels can just as well be dramatic as dull. In the usual all-white or nearly white bathroom, deep-toned hand towels can do a lot toward pepping up the ensemble. Or you can buy dark, brilliantly colored dress linen, or even figured linen, and make your own hand towels. You can fringe the ends, or whip in the hems, or hemstitch them if you're ambitious. Consider what some bright red linen towels would do to your bathroom. Or jade green. Or a fine dark brown. Or turquoise blue.

You could repeat the towel color in curtains, hamper or accessories, and thereby have yourself a new deal with the same old decorative background.

There are lots of other rooms that can be rejuvenated with color, and we have some bulletins that will be a help to you. One is entitled "Recipes for New Wall Colors," which gives you the formulas for mixing paint in the subtle, attractive decorator colors. Another bulletin that you will find of help in planning your colors is "Color Schemes for Pleasant Rooms." ## PARENT AND CHILD

MANY MOTHERS must work. Some do so merely from choice. Obviously working mothers have problems with their children which non-working mothers who don't gad about too much need not have.

Many working mothers cannot afford to hire competent persons to care for their children. Others cannot easily find such. The working mother naturally is inclined to have anxiety about the children while she is at work. Besides she may have all the regular household cares following a heavy day, when it will be difficult for her to be a good companion to the children. Fortunately some dads help her with the work. Wonderful when the older children are trained to help also. Doing so, they may gain in character training just because their mother works—self-reliance and responsibility. Some of the finest children and youths of our country have working mothers.

As a rule, children from one to ten or twelve lose much when mother works. They need her companionship for which there hardly can be an ideal substitute. If she has guided them well up to 12 and can be serene and happy with them in the evenings, they might not lose because of her working; they even might gain.

Ideal Care Taker

Ideally, the person left at home with the children should be one who will have complete responsibility for their discipline in the mother's absence and be fit to take over when the mother on coming home attempts to discipline the children for wrong conduct in her absence, all sorts of troubles will arise. She will be inclined to question and cross-question them and they to deceive her. With growing distrust by the mother and growing defeat by the child inevitable difficulties pile up.

I have been impressed with the large number of working mothers who write me of the child between 10 and 15 who steals. He has probably been tempted by temptations to steal and more exercise in "lying out of it" than other children might have. I wish parents would not hold court with their children, tempting them to lie.

All mothers need to put more trust in genuine love, gentleness and patience while at home. Certainly the working mother does.

Public Health Program Is Urged As Fundamental to Education

Dr. M. D. Collins, State Superintendent of Schools, and Others Speak to Georgia Association on Marked Gains in Co-operative Work.

Delegates to the Georgia Public Health Association yesterday heard that public health work presented "a broadening horizon," as speakers cited "marked gains" in co-operative health work.

Educators, national health experts, cancer specialists, representatives of parent-teacher groups and county health commissioners were included on the second day's program. Sessions will close this morning.

"I think a complete public health program is fundamental to a complete educational program," asserted Dr. M. D. Collins, state superintendent of schools. "You cannot educate a sick child."

Pupils in Poor Health Fail.
"We found, in a survey, that 75 per cent of the children in one county who failed were subjected to bad health conditions. This is one reason why there are 160,000 children in the first grades of our grammar schools, although only a few more than 60,000 children are born in Georgia each year."

"A full program of public health, which is now functioning in Georgia, I believe, will save thousands of dollars in our educational program."

Dr. C. E. Waller, assistant surgeon general of the United States Public Health Service, who directed county health work in Georgia before going to Washington, said achievements to be expected from public health work include:

"Addition of 10 years to the average person's life."
"Further reduction in sickness and death from communicable disease."

"Saving of one-fourth of the people who die each year from pneumonia."

"Saving of 20,000 cancer victims every year."

Dean R. P. Brooks, of the University of Georgia school of commerce, told the 225 delegates that an institute for the study of Georgia problems would be established in the near future at the university. He declared "there can be no other subject of such immediate importance to the state as a thorough, scientific objective inquiry into the causes of the state's poverty, which is the real cause for Georgia's backwardness."

Two symposiums on venereal diseases were held yesterday afternoon, during which Miss Nadine B. Geitz, public health nursing consultant of the American Social Hygiene Association; Dr. S. C. Rutland, Troup county health commissioner, and Dr. J. E. Paulin, past president of the Georgia Medical Association, spoke. Dr. M. E. Winchester, Glynn-McIntosh-Camden health commissioner, led the discussions.

Symposium on Hygiene.
A symposium on maternal and child hygiene was led by Dr. Edwin R. Watson, assistant director of child hygiene of the State Department of Health. Dr. Martha Eliot, assistant chief of the United States children's bureau in Washington; Dr. John H. H. Schereschewsky, acting director of cancer control for Georgia; Richard C. Job, director of the state planning board; Dr. M. V. Zeigler, regional consultant of the United States Department of Health, and Miss Fannie B. Shaw, director of public health education for Georgia.

Others speaking yesterday were Mrs. Charles D. Center, president of the Georgia Congress of Parents and Teachers; Dr. J. W. Schereschewsky, acting director of cancer control for Georgia; Richard C. Job, director of the state planning board; Dr. M. V. Zeigler, regional consultant of the United States Department of Health, and Miss Fannie B. Shaw, director of public health education for Georgia.

At a recent meeting of the Oakland City chapter the chapter was opened and an interesting musical program was enjoyed. The members of Oakland City Lodge F. & A. M., were honor guests. Harry O. Garrett, past grand patron of Georgia, was guest speaker.

Resignations Are Demanded in Augusta Following Complaints.
AUGUSTA, Feb. 25.—(P)—Two members of the resident staff of the University hospital resigned today after complaining over food had been answered by Dean Lombard Kelly with a letter asking any dissatisfied person to turn in his resignation.

They were Dr. John C. Risher, an interne, and Dr. H. W. Long, assistant resident surgeon.

Dean Kelly, who heads the hospital and the University of Georgia School of Medicine here, wrote the staff that the hospital would no longer tolerate "childish action" in the staff and called on those dissatisfied to turn in their resignations.

A petition calling on other members of the staff to do likewise was being circulated.

The letter of resignation submitted by Doctors Risher and Long follows:

"Dear Dr. Kelly:
"We are in receipt of your letter of February 25, 1938, and contents noted."

"Your ultimatum leaves us no choice in that any member of the resident staff is requested to tender their resignation if not satisfied with the food. We are definitely dissatisfied with the food, so the only alternative offered is resignation. No mention was made of any co-operative effort to better these conditions."

"Similar complaints concerning the food condition have been registered in the past, and better food was promised but not forthcoming permanently."

"We hereby tender our resignations for aforesaid reasons."

HOME EXEMPTIONS BARRED ON BONDS

Yeomans Rules on School Building Payments at Collins' Request.

Attorney General M. J. Yeomans has ruled that Georgia homesteads are not exempt from ad valorem taxation for payment of school building bonds, M. D. Collins, state school superintendent, said yesterday.

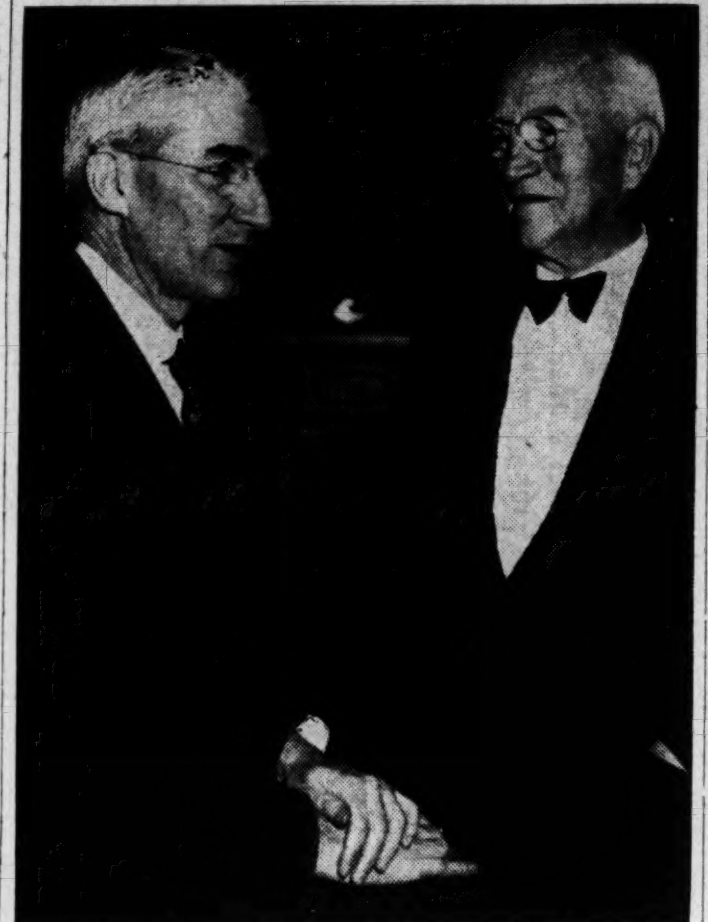

The attorney general ruled, however, that personal property up to $300 is exempt from such specific taxation, he asserted.

Dr. Collins requested the ruling after receiving numerous requests from local school authorities planning to issue bonds to construct new buildings.

The legislature, during its recent special session, enacted enabling laws for two constitutional amendments ratified by the people last June 8. These laws exempt homesteads up to $2,000 in valuation from all taxation except for retirement and interest on bonded indebtedness; and personal property such as household and kitchen furniture, farm implements and domestic animals up to $300 valuation.

BISHOP TO CONFIRM CLASS AT ST. LUKE'S

Aldersgate Movement Will Be Explained Tomorrow at Calvary Methodist.

One of the largest classes in the history of St. Luke's Episcopal church, will be confirmed at morning services tomorrow by Bishop H. J. Mikell. The class was prepared by a course of instruction given by the Rev. John Moore Walker, rector, and the Rev. Theodore V. Morrison, assistant rector. Bishop Mikell will deliver the morning sermon.

The congregation of St. Luke's will begin observance of Lent, at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday morning with a holy communion service. The ancient "penitential" office and sermon will follow at 11:30 o'clock. A 4:45 o'clock prayer service will begin Wednesday afternoon and will continue daily throughout Lent, along with the Lenten noon-day service at 12:30 o'clock each day.

Ash Wednesday services will be observed at 9:30 o'clock Wednesday morning at St. Timothy Episcopal church, Howard and Boulevard N. E., at Holy Comforter Episcopal church, Pulliam and Atlanta avenue, at 11 o'clock, and at St. John's Episcopal church in College Park at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday night. The Rev. Woolsey E. Couch will officiate and offerings will go to the work for the day.

The Aldersgate movement will be brought before the congregation of Calvary Methodist church at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning. Arthur J. McClure, church school superintendent, will bring the "Aldersgate communication," while Mrs. W. H. Holcomb, wife of the Rev. Walt Holcomb, pastor, will speak on the "Aldersgate Commemoration." Dr. Holcomb will present the "Aldersgate Covenant."

Two special services will be held at the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer tomorrow to observe the ninth anniversary of Dr. John L. Yost's ministry here. Dr. James C. Kinard, president of Newberry College, and Newberry College singers will be featured in the services at 11 o'clock.

GOVERNMENT GETS HELIUM MONOPOLY

Buys Last Known U. S. Supply for $537,975.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—(P)—The government obtained a complete monopoly on the nation's known supplies of helium today by buying for $537,975 certain helium-producing land at Dexter, Kan., and Thatcher, Col.

The land, the only known source of the gas outside the government-owned plant at Amarillo, Texas, was bought from the Girdler Corporation, of Louisville, Ky.

Some of the helium will be sold to the navy for its giant new dirigible, LZ-130, now being rushed to completion in the hope of renewing trans-Atlantic dirigible service this summer.

Cotton Farmer Whittles His Way to Art

Joseph H. Summerour Wins Wide Attention Through His Carvings.

By ELLEN ST. JOHN BARNWELL.

Legs carved for a Biblical character turned out to be those on a skater in one clever piece of wood carving done by a cotton farmer to while the time away.

As a hobby, Joseph H. Summerour, who lives on his 650-acre farm on the winding Chattahoochee river near Norcross, Ga., whittles little statues out of wood—wood from the trees right there on the farm. Poplar and cedar are his favorites.

Never having had any art instruction, he works with a natural talent and an ordinary pen knife such as every man carries in his pocket. Ever since he was a child he loved to whittle. As a schoolboy he enjoyed it more than his books. His health now impaired, he is unable to continue the vigorous activities demanded by the management of his large farm that has ten tenant farmers and yields 125 to 150 bales of cotton a year.

Whittling in Courtship. His wood carvings have always appealed to Mrs. Summerour, who says: "During his courtship while I was teaching school he often sent me little carved pieces. Once it was a tiny wooden sword with a note attached, 'Use this on my rivals to keep them away.' Later when he was winning, he sent another bit of his hobby—a rolling pin—so small in size that it could have been used on a bracelet charm."

Now their two little boys are vying with each other to get his recently finished "Cowboy," which shows a cowpuncher of the six-shooter variety waving his hat as he controls his fiery steed that stands upright on his two hind feet.

One unusual feature about this statue is that the horse's reins are made of thin strips of real leather! He has a knack of combining with his wood carving the materials at hand, such as plastic wood, putty, sizing and wood dough, a mixture used in filling nail holes, to get his effects.

Skidmore Interested. The result is so appealing that it interests a skilled artist like Lewis P. Skidmore, director of the High Museum of Art.

Mr. Summerour, having heard of Mr. Skidmore's interest in Atlanta, brought his pieces into the museum. Director Skidmore is encouraging him by having one of his student instructors, Miss Ann DeLoach, paint the exquisite statues.

She will bring color into the cheeks of "Sonja Henie," Graceful, the piece stands about a hand high and shows a fragile skater in a spread-arm position balanced on one skate. Even the fingers are carefully carved. In detail the delicate hair tendrils escape from under her tight nose cap.

Mr. Skidmore says this is the wood carver's masterpiece. "The work has poise and grace and reveals Mr. Summerour to have unusual natural talent," he says.

And Mrs. Summerour smiles possessively. "This statue is mine!" She has the masterpiece!

Children Carving. To. Eagerly trying to imitate "Daddy" are 4-year-old Joe and 8-year-old Homer—named for his well-known grandfather, Homer H. Summerour. It was Homer H. who, being something of an experimentalist, did much for the cotton world.

He crossed the cotton seed until he produced the cotton termed "half and half," which Mr. Summerour interpreted to mean half seed and half lint. This type of cotton produces more seeds and shorter length cotton, but in great yield per acre. With the demand for cotton seed increasing, this type is in wide use at present.

From all over the south, from Tennessee to Texas, the Summerours have visitors, who, having heard of that cotton originator on their plantation, come to see it.

But if Mr. Summerour keeps up his carvings he will have visitors come to see them. Another piece shows an infinitesimal violin complete to tuning pegs—yet this instrument is smaller than your little finger! Again his ingenuity comes into use, for he put shellacked sewing threads for cords and bow strings.

"This violin was carved years ago when I was a boy at school," explained Mr. Summerour, "as I used to have a friend who played the violin." But just last week he carved an enthusiastic Italian youth in whose hands he placed it.

Whoa, there! Just look at this horse made by Joseph H. Summerour, who is a cotton farmer by profession, but a woodcarver by preference. He has a hobby of whittling little figures from wood. For example, see display above. They are really works of art. And he does it with a natural talent and uses an ordinary pocket knife.

"I heard a program over the radio of violin music and it made me think of this piece."

He expects to complete his interpretation of the music by carving a "lady love" in a balcony for the violinist to serenade. He wants to spin the illusion that the music is spellbinding; he will carve a vander in a donkey cart who has stopped to listen. So far all that has been done in the carved drama is the hero and the front legs of the donkey.

Mr. Summerour does not begin carving in the usual way of the head and so on down the figure, but the other way around. He starts with the feet and then does the limbs separately, combines them with plastic wood, places them on a whittled base and turns out a piece not only decorative but full of action.

The "reindeer" came into being because of the antlers! "My mother used to have a sewing box trimmed with them. Well, I kept on looking at this box until I could almost see the deer that they ought to be on," said Mr. Summerour. "Then I selected a piece of poplar wood and got busy."

With the finished animal in mind he began to cut out the feet, the neck, the body and the head, molded them together with plastic wood, fixed the antlers firmly and completed a statue of pleasing proportions. So a cotton farmer's whittling turns out pieces that are truly art!

RELIEF APPLICANT KILLS POORMASTER

Stabbing Follows Argument in Administrator's Office.

HOBOKEN, N. J., Feb. 25.—(P)—A disgruntled relief applicant was held on a murder charge tonight after police said he admitted he stabbed to death this waterfront's aged and much-criticized poormaster with a steel spindle during an argument in the relief office.

Sends after 74-year-old Harry L. Bark, relief administrator here for 40 years, fell to the floor clutching his breast and screaming "He's got me," swarthy Joseph Scutellaro, 36, unemployed father of two small children, was taken into custody.

Several times previously Bark had been assaulted by relief clients and a few minutes before today's stabbing, a woman was arrested on his complaint after he had charged she spit in his face.

TOBACCO MAN CLEARED OF SLAYING CHARGE

MORRISTOWN, Tenn., Feb. 25.—(P)—A jury acquitted C. H. Bobbitt, Springfield (Ky.) tobacco warehouseman, of charges of murdering today in the January 27 slaying of Richard Nally, Asheville (N. C.) tobacco man.

Shortly after the verdict, Mrs. Iris Nally, of Asheville, widow of the slain man, filed a civil suit seeking $50,000 damages from Bobbitt for the death of her husband. Bobbitt, 45, testified he shot Nally in self defense after the North Carolinian slashed at him with a knife on a downtown street.
